MASSIE CASE BRINGS ACTION IN CONGRESS

Senate Votes to Keep "Hung Juries" from Freeing 4 in Attack

PARDON BILL IN HOUSE

Crisp Offers Measure to Free Four Convicted in "Honor Killing"

Washington —(AP)— A bill to prevent "hung juries" from freeing the four men charged with attacking Mrs. Thalia Massie, wife of a naval officer, in Honolulu was passed today by the senate.

The measure was approved without a dissenting voice a short while after Representative Crisp (D., Ga.) had introduced a measure in the house to pardon the four Americans convicted of manslaughter in the slaying of an Hawaiian.

Senate passage came only a few minutes after the territories committee had favorably reported the bill by its chairman, Bingham of Connecticut.

He explained to the senate that immediate enactment was necessary to avoid the possibility that the men accused of attacking Mrs. Massie might be freed by a "hung jury" in their second trial which is about to be held.

A jury disagreed in the first trial. Hawaiian law provides that two successive disagreements shall operate as an acquittal.

Referring to the Hawaiian statute, Bingham said "it is a law we were not familiar with and never consciously approved of."

Meets Suggestion

The bill carries out the recommendations of Seth W. Richardson, assistant attorney general, sent to investigate conditions in the island, after Joseph Kahahawai, one of the defendants, had been killed.

In connection with the killing, four Americans, including Lieut. Thomas Massie and his mother-in-law, Mrs. Granville Fortescue, have been convicted of manslaughter in a spectacular trial. What will happen to the Crisp move for a congressional pardon remains to be seen.

A short flare-up over the outcome of the recent trial in Hawaii today interrupted house proceedings while it was approving the Houston bill to let women born in the Hawaiian islands before annexation, and who now live in the United States, be considered citizens. Representative Lanham (D., Texas) remarked that something else ought to be done for American women in the islands."

He criticized Circuit Judge A. M. Kristy for having refused to let a grand jury fail to find a true bill against Lieut. Massie and the others who were convicted for the Kahahawai killing.

"No judge ought to be allowed to coerce a grand jury," Blanton said.

GIRL SLAIN, MOTHER SERIOUSLY WOUNDED

Negro, Shot Down by Victim's Father, Accuses Latter Before He Dies

Memphis, Tenn.—(AP)—An 8-year-old girl was hacked to death in her sleep, her mother was critically wounded and a Negro accused of attacking them with an ax was fatally wounded by gunshot in an exclusive sub-division home here at dawn today.

Aurelia Puryear, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley A. Puryear, was slain as she lay beside her mother. The assailant, presumably using an ax, then turned on Mrs. Puryear, striking her about the head and face. She is not expected to recover.

Puryear told police the attack was made by a Negro and that the intruder then came to his bedroom, seized two pistols from a dresser and opened fire. Puryear said he returned the fire with a shotgun and the Negro ran limping from the house.

The story was contradicted by Will Jamison, the Negro, who was arrested as he stumbled down the street not far from the Puryear home.

Before his death the Negro said Puryear had picked him up early today, offering him $3 to help him get some whisky from his house.

"He shot me down when we got to the house," the Negro told police. "I don't know anything about the things that happened inside."

PREMIER TARDIEU

TARDIEU LOSES GROUND IN VOTE

Former Premier Herriot Counts Sunday's Election as Victory

Paris —(AP)— A slight but nevertheless definite trend to the liberal left in yesterday's preliminary election of the chamber of deputies was confirmed by the summary of the ministry of the interior today.

This official tabulation showed that 248 deputies, or more than one-third of the chamber, had been seated by the first vote. The remaining 367 seats will be filled in next Sunday's run-off with the exception of four colonial seats, which will be decided later in the year.

The largest numerical group gaining a definite place yesterday were the Radical-Socialists who got 63 seats.

Thus encouraged, the Radicals (Liberals) began a new intensive campaign to transform the movement to the left into a pronounced victory. They hoped to have weaker candidates, including some Socialists, to withdraw thus making their sucess certain.

Similar maneuvering appeared among the conservatives of the right and the right center, the groups which form the present government of Premier Andre Tardieu.

"I counted on victory, and it is one," said former Premier Edouard Herriot. M. Tardieu's chief opponent, at Lyons. "It is a strongly marked swing to the left."

SUB-COMMITTEE AGAIN GETS WILKERSON CASE

Washington—(AP)—The senate judiciary committee today referred back to the sub-committee the nomination of Judge James H. Wilkerson of Chicago for promotion to the circuit bench.

Chairman Norris announced the action was taken to permit further hearing of Donald R. Richberg, attorney for the Railway Labor Executives association, which is one of the leading groups fighting the nomination of the Chicago jurist who sentenced Al Capone to prison.

Senator Borah (R., Idaho.) is chairman of the sub-committee which by a one vote margin recently recommended that Wilkerson be confirmed.

2,200 SCHOOL CHILDREN WILL OFFER CANTATA

Program to Be Presented at Wilson School Wednesday Afternoon

Approximately 2,200 public and parochial Appleton school children will take part Wednesday afternoon in the city school program, which is part of the bi-centennial anniversary of Washington and the diamond jubilee of the city.

"George Washington," a cantata and dramatic tableau by Ira B. Wilson, will be presented at 2 o'clock at Wilson junior school athletic field with facilities arranged to accommodate at least 4,000 spectators.

Earl L. Baker, music director in the public schools, is in charge of the vocal work, which includes huge choruses of school children from the fifth and sixth grades of every school in the city, all the junior high school girls and the junior high school boy tenors. Mrs. John Engel, Jr., has charge of the tableaux, which will be given by students in the junior and senior high schools. Music for the tableau and chorus production will be given by the Appleton high school symphony orchestra under the direction of Jay I. Williams and the Appleton high school band under E. C. Moore. The Misses Irene Bidwell and Kathryn Uglow are assisting with the musical accompaniments.

Opening with introductory music by the high school band, the cantata procession of school children will march on the field to the "The Pilgrim March" by M. L. Lake. The presentation of colors will be made by Eagle Boy Scouts in the city, with all children participating on the field.

Begin With Songs

Patriotic in spirit throughout, the cantata and dramatic tableau, will begin with a series of three songs, "Let Freedom Ring"; "First in the Hearts of His Countrymen" and the "Tale from the Cherry Tree", sung by more than 2,000 children's voices.

Following the song of the cherry tree will be the first tableau which depicts the cherry tree episode, so well known in the life of George Washington. "The Spirit of '76" in song will present the setting for the tableau which follows the musical story. Told in song, the liberty bell and the making of the flag will be given, immediately followed by the tableau in which the flag is being made by Betsy Ross and her workers.

Washington in war is given in the libretto "Valley Forge" followed by the fourth tableau showing Washington in prayer. This scene carried into the inauguration of Washington as the first president, the school children singing "Long Live the President" and junior high school students portraying Washington taking his oath of office in April 30, 1789.

One of the most colorful and beautiful tableaux will be the Inaugural ball scene, in which gorgeous Colonial ladies and gay dandies dance the stately Colonial minuet, the frolicsome Virginia reel, with the grand ball waltz danced to the strains of the "Blue Danube waltz, as a finale of the scenes. Miss Lenora May, high schol teacher is in charge of the dances. Closing the Washington story in pageantry are the songs "Mount Vernon", "Salute the Flag" and the "Star Spangled Banner". In recessional the school children will march from the field with Sousa's "El Capitan" march.

GRASSHOPPER CONTROL BILL WINS APPROVAL

Washington—(AP)—The house agriculture committee today approved the Simmons resolution to authorize $1,000,000 for grasshopper control in eight northwestern states.

Instead of taking up the Simmons resolution, however, Chairman Jones said it was likely he would ask the house to vote on the Shipstead measure approved Friday by the senate.

The latter would appropriate and make immediately available $1,450,000. The house will be asked to reduce that to $1,000,000 and agree to the remainder of the resolution.

Committee approval came after representatives from the eight states had agreed with a government entomologist in predicting possible worse results than followed the grasshopper plague last year unless money for poisoning were made available at once.

Judge Store Windows At 7:30 Tonight

Three expert judges, one an art critic, one an historian, and one a merchandiser will arrive in Appleton this afternoon to inspect and adjudge the merchants windows entered in the Bicentennial and Jubilee Windows contest. The judging will take place at 7:30 this evening. The official car, accompanied by a police escort of two cycle officers will leave the Conway hotel at that time and will inspect the merchants windows whether they have been entered in the contest or not. In fact most of the windows have been attractively decorated not to win any prize but rather to contribute something to the community celebration and the historical importance and the lessons to be learned by studying better and appreciating more the builders of the nation, the state and this very city.

The Bicentennial and Jubilee committee, however, has rewarded the merchants and their window decorators by obtaining a bronze cast bust of the Houdon statue of Washington which before this bicentennial year was never removed from the national Washington shrine at Mount Vernon and never copied. Special permission was granted the government committee on the bicentennial to make a copy of this head for use in the colleges, schools and elsewhere. From this authorized model this particular bust was cast into bronze at Port Washington, Wis.

Award Bust Tonight

The bronze bust will be awarded this evening to the window declared by these three out-of-the-city judges to be the best window in town, according to the scale of awards which the contest has adopted. The judges are unknown to anyone in Appleton except the director of the celebration. Nor will they be known until they meet each other at the hotel and proceed to the business of judging the displays. One judge will have 50 points to award for historical value. A second judge will have 25 points to award any window for artistic appropriateness or balance and the third will have 25 points to

MODIFICATION DENIED FOR CONSENT DECREE

Washington —(AP)— Modification of the packers' consent decree to permit the packers to deal at wholesale in groceries and other lines not related to the packing house industry was rejected today by the supreme court.

Under the ruling, the packers will be prohibited from continuing in their present lines of business, and must compiy with the terms of the consent decree which destricted their activities exclusively to meat and other slaughterhouse products. The opinion was handed down by Justice Cardozo.

FEAR 2 CADETS ARE DROWNED IN HUDSON

West Point, N. Y.—(AP)—Two boats were cruising the Hudson river today in search of Alan J. Light and Leo A. Skeim, second year cadets in the United States Military academy, who have been missing since they set out in a canoe Saturday.

Their canoe was found yesterday drifting upside down near Newburgh, N. Y. A paddle was found this morning.

Light is the son of Samuel K. Light of Washington, D. C. Cadet Skeim's nearest relative is Mrs. Russell Needham of Valley City, N. D. Two uncles of Cadet Light are assisting in the search.

Young British Scientists Succeed In Breaking Atom

London —(AP)— Two young scientists of Cambridge university were hailed today as having achieved a goal physicists have sought to reach for years. They have broken the atom.

In announcing details of what he called "a discovery of great scientific importance," Lord Rutherford, noted scientist, said Drs. J. D. Cockroft and E. T. S. Walton accomplished the feat after several years of work with apparatus erected under his supervision.

Dr. Cockroft said he and his colleague bombarded hydrogen atoms with a voltage of 120,000 and that under the bombardment the hydrogen atoms began to break up into helium, a still rarer gas. The helium atoms, he said, came out of the bombardment with energies of 100 to 160 times those of the particles fired into them.

Only one particle broke up, however, for every 10,000,000 particles used to bombard it, he said. Dr. Cockroft, the older of the two experimenters, is only 34.

Scientists have long hoped to split an atom, some contending that when this feat was accomplished a boundless source of energy would be available. There have been extremists who feared the accomplishment would mean the hurling of the world to destruction.

Asked how his experiments compared with those of Drs. Millikan and Anderson in the United States, Dr. Cockroft said he had seen no official confirmation of Dr. Millikan's work.

"It is a well known theory that cosmic rays are produced by breaking of atoms in stars," he said. "This, however, is quite a different matter from the laboratory experiment in the disintegration of the atom."

Dr. Carl Anderson, at the California Institute of Technology, devised an electro-magnet last year which made possible the photography of an atom nucleus while it was being dissipated by cosmic rays.

ENTIRE FAMILY IS WIPED OUT AT MARSHFIELD

Seventh Person in Automobile Injured But Has Chance to Recover

Marshfield, Wis.—(AP)—A crack Soo line passenger train, making its first run from Chicago to Minneapolis yesterday, killed six persons, wiping out an entire family, when it struck and demolished an automobile at a grade crossing near here.

All the members of the Irvin Riemer family, the father, 32, his wife 30 and their two children Donald 12 and Lois 3 were killed. Irvin's brother Joseph, 47, and his wife, 37, were the other victims. Joseph's daughter, Gwendolyn, 7, suffered fractures of the right arm and collarbone. Examination today established that her back was not broken, as was first feared. Physicians said she has a good chance to recover.

The accident occurred about 5:30 p. m., as the Riemers were returning to their farm homes near Rudolph after visiting another brother, W. C. Riemer, who lives six miles from here.

Four other children survive the Joseph Riemers, Joseph, Jr., 15; Dorothy, 13; Gordon, 11, and Mildred, 9. They had remained at home.

The train halted after the crash and the dead were taken to Spencer. John Orgish, Spencer, a passing motorist, brought Gwendolyn to a hospital here. Orgish was driving behind the Riemer car and witnessed the accident.

The impact of the crash was so terrific that only the engine and a few parts of the automobile were left at the crossing. One of the bodies was tossed about 150 feet.

Charles Hinckley, Stevens Point, was the conductor on the train, which was piloted by Engineer Meacher of Fond du Lac.

Coroner George W. Krueger of Marathon co. impanelled a jury which visited the scene of the accident today. Testimony will be heard Wednesday or Thursday.

UNCOVER GIGANTIC TEXAS OIL THEFT

18 Men Facing Charge as Result of Million Barrel Shortage

Longview, Texas — (AP)—The alleged theft of one million barrels of oil from the gigantic prorated, east Texas oil field is being investigated.

Nearly nine months ago overproduction of this new field was credited with unsettling the price structure of the entire industry, and Gov. Ross S. Sterling ordered national guardsmen to enforce a controlled output.

One of 18 men against whom charges of theft have been filed is E. M. Daniels, a deputy supervisor of the state railroad commission, which supervises proration. Another is Paxton Gray, a former deputy supervisor and a brother-in-law of Fred Upchurch, assistant attorney general. Six of the 18 have not yet been arrested.

The arrests climaxed a 45-day investigation by civil and military authorities. Three members of the national guard were used to obtain evidence.

The oil was said to have been taken by means of by-passes, a pipe passed around a meter in such a way the entire flow of oil was not recorded.

The huge quantity was alleged to have been stolen from five Gladewater townsite wells in the last seven months.

Investigators said the illegal flow from one of the producers was so large pressure of offset wells was reduced 15 pounds in 10 days. Military authorities said the stolen oil had been shipped to refiners in Waco, Dallas, Eagle Ford and Chalmette, La.

KREUGER ACCOUNTANT REPORTED ARRESTED

Stockholm, Sweden— (AP)— The newspaper Dagens Nyheter said today another accountant formerly employed by the late Ivar Kreuger, Swedish match king who committed suicide in Paris in March, was arrested today in connection with the investigation into Kreuger's affairs. This makes the sixth man held in connection with the inquiries.

POWER CHIEF WINS IN COURT

Senate Loses Fight With Hoover Over Appointment of G. O. Smith

Washington —(AP)—The senate lost its fight with the president today when the supreme court declared Chairman George Otis Smith of the Federal Power commission was entitled to hold that office.

The court, in an opinion by Justice Brandeis, held the senate was without authority to recall the nomination of Smith after it had advised the president of his confirmation and Smith had taken the oath of office.

When the president refused to return the nomination the senate went through the formality of reconsidering and rejecting the nomination.

HALE PUSHES BILL FOR NAVAL CONSTRUCTION

Washington —(AP)— A drive for legislation to permit building the navy up to treaty limits was opened in the senate today by Chairman Hale, of the naval committee.

Urging the senate to take up for consideration his bill to authorize a navy as big as the Washington and London treaties permit, Hale cited figures to show that this country's fleet is falling behind those of other nations.

"While we have refrained from building, all other nations have built extensively," Hale warned the senate.

KIDNAPED YOUTH STILL SOUGHT IN ILLINOIS

Joliet, Ill. —(AP)— The kidnaped 22-year-old Gustav Miller had not returned home as yet although $50,000 ransom was reported ready for his abductors and an intensive private search was being carried on today by his wealthy father.

An uncompleted telephone call traced to the haunts of the notorious "42" gang of Chicago turned the search in that direction yesterday but nothing was known of the identity of the caller, as he hung up before a connection was made with the home of the father, Max Miller, a wholesale grocer.

ITCH POWDER USED IN CANADA TO BREAK UP NUDIST PARADE

Nelson, B. C.—(AP)—British Columbia police used itch powder and short lengths of garden hose as weapons yesterday when they encountered 200 Doukhobors on parade at Thrums, 16 miles from Nelson. Authorities arrested 117 men and women.

The Doukhobors, many of whom were nude, fought back savagely. They turned several streams of water on the officers.

Police sprang clear of the water and sprayed the powder on the exposed bodies of the men and women, finally herding them into an orchard where they were held until trucks arrived to bring them here.

The prisoners consisted of 33 women and 84 men. They will be arraigned during the week. Persons guilty of parading in the nude are liable to three years' imprisonment.

It was the second demonstration at Thrums in 24 hours. On Saturday the Doukhobors, a religious sect which came to Canada from Russia, staged a parade, during which there was a disturbance. However, when police arrived all was quiet.

LOSES HIS LAST CHANCE TO STAY OUT OF PRISON

Gang Lord Expected to Begin Serving Sentence Within Few Days

RULING ENDS BATTLE

Supreme Court Does Not Give Reasons for Failure to Act on Plea

Washington—(AP)—Al Capone today was denied a review by the supreme court of his conviction for evading income taxes.

The ruling meant that America's most notorious gangster had lost his last legal chance of escaping his 11-year sentence.

"Scarface Al" is now in jail in Chicago. Confined there since his sentence by Judge James H. Wilkerson, he will probably be sent to a federal prison in a few days.

As is customary, the court did not give its reasons for refusing to open the case. It previously had refused to interfere with sentences imposed on Ralph Capone, Al's brother, and other members of the Capone gang convicted for failure to pay income taxes.

Charges Against Capone

In addition to his 11-year sentence he was fined $50,000. The penalties were confirmed by the Seventh Circuit Court of Appeals on Feb. 27, 1932, and on March 23, 1932, he was denied a rehearing.

In his plea for a review, Capone argued that the indictment against him was defective because it was worded in general terms which did not give him sufficient information to prepare his defense.

His lawyers also raised a number of other technical points. The government in reply argued that the indictment was good and that the conviction should stand.

MAY GO WEDNESDAY

Chicago—(AP)—"Scarface Al" Capone probably will not be taken to prison before Wednesday night, it was learned at the federal building today after the United States Supreme court had denied him a review of his conviction for evading income taxes.

United States Marshal Henry C. W. Laubenheimer said he would be ready "when the mandate arrives" and under normal procedure the official notification from the high court at Washington would arrive about Wednesday afternoon.

Capone has remained in the Cook-co jail for more than six months on a writ of supersedeas granted by the circuit court of appeals and preventing his removal to a federal prison while the case was appealed. This writ must be vacated before Capone can be taken from the jail.

Which of the three federal penitentiaries will house the notorious gang leader is a question supposed to have been decided recently by department of justice officials, but thus far it has remained a secret. The original order under which he has sentenced to 11 years specified that his prison term of 10 years be spent in Leavenworth penitentiary and the other year in the Cook-co jail.

"Spreading" Policy

Since the government offensive started a procession of gangsters to prison, federal authorities have adopted a policy of "spreading" the members of the Capone gang. Ralph Capone, Al's brother, was sent to McNeil's island, Washington, because there were already too many fellow gangsters in Leavenworth and it was understod the government might also decide to send Al Capone elsewhere.

George E. Q. Johnson, the United States district attorney who has won every phase of every prosecution of gangsters for violating income tax laws, said he and his staff had spent a great deal of time on the Capone case and that he was "naturally very gratified" that the final victory was at hand.

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson, who heard the case, passed the largest sentence ever handed down in an income tax case, and refused to grant Capone bail, said he "finished with that case last October" and refused any further comment.

Capone, who has spent half a year in jail without getting any credit on his long prison term, was reported to have flown into a rage when the news reached his cell. He refused to see reporters or anyone else.

RIGID ECONOMY URGED FOR ITALIAN REGIME

Rome—(AP)—Italy's estimated income for the next fiscal year beginning in July will not exceed $925,000,000, the budget committee reported today, urging the most rigid economy. Estimated expenditures will exceed that amount by $75,000,000. The parliament was urged to slash and trim wherever possible.

Mrs. Massie To Testify Against Four Accused Of Assault

RETRIAL MAY BE STARTED IN NEXT 2 WEEKS

John C. Kelley, "Honor Slaying" Prosecutor, May Handle Case

Honolulu—(AP)— With a definite promise Mrs. Thalia Massie will testify against the remaining four men accused of brutality assaulting her, prosecuting officials today were to lay final plans for retrial of the case.

Representatives of the attorney general and the public prosecutor were expected to determine a date for trial—probably within two weeks. They also were to decide whether Prosecutor John C. Kelley, who obtained a manslaughter conviction last Friday of Mrs. Massie's husband, mother and two sailors for lynching the young woman's fifth alleged attacker, will handle the territory's case.

The four accused of assaulting Mrs. Massis last September are Horace Ida, Japanese; Henry Chang, Chinese; David Takai, Japanese, and Ben Ahakeulo, Hawaiian. Their first trial last November ended with the jury deadlocked.

Also a defendant at the trial was Joseph Kahahawai, Hawaiian, for whose slaying Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, Mrs. Massie's husband; Mrs. Granville Fortescue, her mother; and E. J. Lord and Albert O. Jones were convicted of manslaughter.

Whether Kelley would conduct the prosecution has been a subject of speculation. It is widely felt his vigorous prosecution of Lieut. Massie and his co-defendants would make it embarrassing for him to do so.

Two incidents at the murder trial are regarded as being against his leading the prosecution. One was his tilt with Mrs. Massie when she was under cross-examination as a defense witness. Mrs. Massie tore up a paper allegedly containing a written admission of a rift between her and her husband.

Kelley's Statement

"Thank you, Mrs. Massie," Kelley said in anger. "At last you have shown yourself in your true colors."

Later while the jury was deliberating, Mrs. Massie refused to accept a friendly gesture made by him. Yet, if Kelley conducted the prosecution at the attack trial, Mrs. Massie would be his chief witness. Kelley has declined to comment.

The question of whether Mrs. Massie would testify at the retrial was settled yesterday when Robert Bell of New York, her uncle, announced she would. There had been reports that, because of Kelley's attitude, Mrs. Massie would not testify again.

Deputy Attorney General Harold Kay said new evidence had been found and the territory would have an "infinitely stronger" case than when the first trial was held. He predicted the retrial would start within two weeks.

The disorders which both naval and civilian authorities thought might follow Friday's manslaughter verdict have not occurred. There have been no disturbances but commercial reprisals have started. The service people have begun buying exclusively from the army and navy commissaries, while a group of white women has declared a boycott on the firms employing members of the jury.

Meanwhile, the four convicted defendants of the murder trial were described by Bell as "bearing up under it wonderfully well."

"We all were tremendously surprised," he said. "We didn't see how there could be a conviction."

Cyarence Darrow, veteran leader of defense counsel has regained some of his spirit.

The next defense move in the manslaughter case, said Montgomery Winn, assistant defense counsel, will come Friday when a motion for a new trial will be filed after sentence is passed.

CONVICTS, BACKING DRY MEASURE, WIN DEBATE IN PRISON

Jackson, Mich—(AP)— It looked like a bad break for the Michigan State prison debating team when it drew the negative of the question, "Resolved: That the eighteenth amendment should be repealed," for one of the prison debaters is serving a sentence for violating the prohibition law.

But the three prisoners upheld their side so effectively last night that they won the decison over a team of Detroiters, recruited from members of a University of Auchigan extension course public speaking class. Judges of the debate, held in the auditorium of the new prison, were members of the university faculty.

THREE KILLED AS RESULT OF MAY DAY RIOTS

Disorders Throughout World Less Serious Than in Other Years

(By The Associated Press)

Three persons were dead today, scores were in hospitals, and hundreds of heads bore the marks of police clubs as the aftermath of May day celebrations throughout the world. The disorders were less serious than in other years, however, and the observance was ranked as one of the most peaceful since the World war.

Most large cities saw parades of Socialists, Communists and workers' groups yesterday. The largest of all was a day-long march at Moscow of two million men and women, soldiers and civilians, past the tomb of Lenin in Red square.

One man was killed near Madrid, during a clash and two others met death in the coal strike area at Sosnowiec, Poland.

New York led the demonstrations in the United States, with a parade in a drizzling rain, of 40,000 Communists, carrying a bedraggled dragon branded "Capitalism."

Police were busier in Spain than elsewhere, clashing with the demonstrators in many cities. Paris, London, Berlin and other larger European cities also had their clashes, minor and major casualties and hundreds of arrests.

In Mexico City 20,000 paraded in an orderly review. In South America the chief tension was at Santiago, Chile, where 18,000 members of the national guard dashed about with machine guns, on the alert for outbreaks, but none occurred.

Parades were held in many of the larger cities of Argentina without serious trouble. In Buenos Aires large groups of Communists and Socialists paraded.

Havana police rushed a group of 1,000 Communists in a downtown street and arrested a score of them after seizing red banners bearing anti-government slogans.

Australian Communists chased the acting premier of Victoria out of Yarrabank during a celebration there, but he and his party were rescued by police and escorted to Melbourne.

At Geneva, home of the league of nations, several thousand paraded and there was much speech-making. Budapest police jailed 76 agitators.

RUSSIA FOR PEACE

Moscow—(AP)—The legions of Russia's red army stood dedicated to peace today. They were pledged afresh on May day yesterday in Red square while 600 miles to the south, at Dnieperstroy, giant new dynamos hummed an obligato of industry.

V. M. Voroshiloff, commissar for war and navy, began yesterday's day-long celebrations by telling soldiers of the Moscow garrison that theirs was a protectorate of world peace. Decrying the refusal of the world disarmamnt conference to accept Russia's proposals for abolition of arms, he reiterated the non-aggressive aims of the red army.

Squalid Community Found Within Dozen Miles Of Hoover's Rapidan Camp

Skyland, Va. —(AP)— The folks of Corbin Hollow—a community of perennial starvation and penniless squalor within a dozen miles of President Hoover's Rapidan camp are about to come into something more than their own.

A plan to move the community, rooted in this one spot since the Revolutionary war, to a new section of the mountains adjoining a church mission has been virtually agreed upon between federal and state officials.

Mixed up in the strange story are officials of the National Park service, a Washington physician and a lone woman social worker, Miss Miriam Sizer.

Secretary Wilbur rode into the Hollow over the weekend accompanied by Horace M. Albright, director of the National Park service, Dr. R. Lyman Sexton of Washington, and Miss Sizer.

They found six families living in the Hollow, all named Corbin or Nicholson. All the adults are cousins. The children of sisters and brothers have intermarried. They speak a queer, Chaucerian English, almost un-understandable. They say "Holpen" for "to help," and "withouten" for "without."

Dr. Sexton reported that the use of soap was almost unknown to them and that many surfered from malnutrition and tuberculosis. He told of taking a 20-month-old baby weighing only 12 pounds, from the Hollow into a Luray, Va., hospital.

With nourishment it has become almost normal.

Miss Sizer said all of the children up to 20 years of age would be in the first grade except two, the star being a 12-year old youngster capable of going into the third grade. But in all Corbin Hollow history only nine months of school has been given the community.

Miss Sizer obtained for them three barrels of flour from the farm board wheat recently voted by congress for the distressed. She made them a barrel of sour kraut to ward off pellagra. She bought them potatoes and showed them how to can apples.

Corbin Hollow is within the limits of the new Shenandoah National park. In order not only to aid the Corbins and the Nicholsons but also to clear the park, the plan of providing a sizeable plot for them near a mountain mission was advanced. Wilbur looked on it with favor.

"No matter what is done with these people," he said, "they will be better off. They have nothing to lose."

U. S. WATCHING VOTE CONTEST IN CALIFORNIA

Democratic Party to Help Determine Status of Roosevelt

Washington —(AP)— Political contests this week are overshadowed by California's fateful Democratic primary which tomorrow may come near making or breaking the candidacy of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Political leaders await its decision between Roosevelt, Alfred E. Smith and John N. Garner, in a suspense rivalling that which preceded last week's overwhelming victory for Smith in Massachusetts and the rather undecisive Smith-Roosevelt contest in Pennsylvania.

Should the New York governor lose in California, his rush to win the nomination will be almost certain of defeat, and the selection of a presidential choice will rest upon the unpredictable action of the Democratic convention.

His victory would virtually eliminate the Garner boom, answer the Smith victory in Masschusetts and send the bandwagon rolling forward with odds favoring it to complete the course.

Before this contest is settled President Hoover, in the Republican camp, will have had it out squarely with the one man who seeks to dispute his otherwise clear road to renomination. In Maryland, former Senator Joseph I. France's home ground, a preferential primary today will record a popular choice between him and the president. A convention later will select delegates, not bound by the preferential vote.

Also it was expected that today's Democratic convention in Rhode Island will pick ten delegates friendly to, if not instructed for, Alfred E. Smith. The Maryland Democratic primary will lead to selection of 16 Democratic delegates for Gov. Albert C. Ritchie.

Roosevelt stands to pick up tomorrow 20 to 24 convention votes in Alabama and 10 in South Dakota; both states holding primaries.

CALIFORNIA SITUATION

San Francisco —(AP)— For Democrats, the state's presidential primary tomorrow is vital; for the Republicans it will be only a vote of confidence in its unopposed candidate - - President Hoover.

The Democrats, holding a record registration strength of 847,482, will decide to whom will go California's 44 votes at the party's national convention. Delegation tickets, to appear on the ballots, are pledged to:

Franklin D. Roosevelt, governor of New York.

Fried Frog Legs, Tuesday night. Stark's Hotel.

A Statement of Great Importance

TO THOSE WHO PLAN TO BUY AN ELECTRIC REFRIGERATOR

Announcing a 4-Year Service Plan

WE HAVE replaced many thousands of refrigerators of other makes which have been in service only two or three years. They were replaced because the excessive cost of servicing and maintaining them made it cheaper to buy new machines.

Low first price is not low cost. The few dollars that you might save today by buying a cheap refrigerator can quickly be consumed by repair bills and service charges. When the mechanism fails the refrigerator becomes just a box.

An Automobile Comparison

The average car is driven 60,000 miles. At 30 miles an hour this is 2,000 operating hours.

In one single year any automatic refrigerator must operate over 3,000 hours. In four years the mechanism of your refrigerator will have to equal the average lifetime wear of more than six automobiles.

The Heart of the Refrigerator is the Mechanism

70% of your investment goes into the mechanism. A good cabinet will last for years. The finish may scratch, or chip, or be marred, but is easily repaired. The thickness and insulating qualities of a cabinet and its durability are very important, but the heart of the whole refrigerator is the mechanism. It is unfair and misleading to misrepresent these facts.

General Electric knew all these conditions before our scientists and engineers approved the General Electric Refrigerator for public use. Other types are cheaper to manufacture and can sell for less; but we believe that no other type will give equal satisfaction, or as low a total cost of refrigeration over a period of years.

The Monitor Top

When the General Electric Refrigerator was designed, it was known that stuffing boxes would leak—so they were eliminated! Belts could break—so they were eliminated! Fans could get out of order—and they, too, were eliminated! Too much or too little oil caused trouble—so we eliminated the need for oiling. You never need oil a General Electric Refrigerator—another important and exclusive feature.

The General Electric mechanism is a complete unit, compactly designed and built—hermetically sealed-in-steel—protected against tampering and against the ravages of air, dust, and moisture, the agents of deterioration which make repeated repairs necessary.

Natural Air Cooling

The General Electric Monitor Top mechanism is entirely different from the hundred conventional type machines in appearance—in basic design—in operating principle—and in performance!

Different in appearance because it was designed to perform a task—and different in appearance in the same manner that the 1932 automobile is different in appearance from the best carriage ever made—uncovered as it should be to give you the benefit of natural air cooling and to avoid the use of troublesome fans and belts and the consequent need for oiling.

Our Experience Record

General Electric labored to give the highest quality at lowest cost; and that it has succeeded is proven by the outstanding performance record in the hands of our million and a quarter users. It gained its leadership within eighteen months and maintains that leadership now. During the past four years the public has invested over $300,000,000 in General Electric Refrigerators.

AND NOW—
A Four Year Service Plan

As a result of experience General Electric was the first to offer two additional years guarantee beyond the standard one year warranty. Now after 20 years of research, including the experience of over four years of actual field service with more than a million and a quarter users, General Electric again steps ahead of the refrigerator industry with a service contract protecting each new buyer against all service and repair charges on the Monitor Top mechanism for three additional years beyond the standard one year warranty.

In case of trouble or failure General Electric does not patch the mechanism. A factory unit is installed without charge if failure occurs within the contract service period.

So look to the mechanism—your service policy—and the manufacturer back of it before you buy—and then use your own good judgment.

Burglars Get $827 In Checks And Cash, $75 In Merchandise

TWO PLACES ARE ENTERED OVER WEEKEND

Safe Is Stolen from R. and S. Shoe Store — Golf Course Building Looted

Two burglaries here over the weekend resulted in the loss of $837.17 in cash and checks from the R. and S. shoe store, 116 E. College-ave, and of approximately $75 worth of merchandise from the club house at the municipal golf course.

The burglary at the shoe store occurred between 11:30 and 1:45 Saturday night, while the burglary at the municipal golf course was discovered about 11 o'clock Sunday night by Officers Earl Thomas and Alfred Gosha, squad car patrolmen.

Jack Howard, manager of the shoe store, discovered the burglary when he returned to the shop after attending a movie. The burglars had gained entrance to the store by drilling a hole in the rear door and then reaching through and opening the lock. The burglars evidently were just leaving when Mr. Howard returned because, he said, he heard the rear door slam as he entered from the front. The burglars carried off the small safe in which the money had been placed. Up to noon the safe had not yet been found. Mr. Howard, who was accompanied by his wife, immediately notified the police and an investigation has been started. Mr. Howard said he thought the loss was covered by insurance by the main office of his company.

About $200 of the $837 was in checks while the balance was in cash, Mr. Howard estimated. The rear door, through which entrance was made, is enclosed in a storm shed which hid the marauders from the gaze of anyone passing through the alley.

Entrance to the municipal golf course was gained by breaking a window on the north side of the structure. The looters then broke open a wooden chest in which there was a supply of golf balls, candy, cigars and cigarets. These things were removed and the marauders then left through a window on the south side of the building. Police also are investigating this case.

JUDGES VIEW STORE WINDOWS TONIGHT

award upon the general effectiveness or impressiveness of the display regardless of the earlier two qualifications. The sum total of points awarded any window by all three judges will constitute the windows score.

Second prizes are wooden plaques surmounted with medallions in ivory tone of the profile of the same Houdon statue of Washington.

The public is invited to accompany the judges on their tour of the store windows this evening. The committee wishes that everyone in the city would before the week is past, avail themselves of the opportunity to leisurely view the many impressive window displays which have been assembled from far and wide and artistically displayed for the edification and gratification of citizens and future citizens—the present school children.

The judges have been asked to have their decisions made before 9:30 in order that the winning windows might be properly marked at that hour. The formal award of the prizes will be made later in the week.

Many of the windows were being set up today and will be seen for the first time tonight when the judges arrive to inspect and score them. Others have been installed since before the parade of Saturday and already have been viewed by thousands of persons.

SCOUTS, STUDENTS AID IN PLANTING TREES AT ASYLUM

2,000 White Pine Spruce Seedlings Are Set Out on Wood Lot

A group of Appleton boy scouts Saturday set out 1,000 white pine and spruce trees on the wood lot of the Outagamie-co asylum on Highway 19 west of the city. The boys worked under direction of F. B. Trenk, state extension forester; Gus Sell, county agent; R. H. Meyer, Appleton, vice president of the Outagamie Fish and Game association, and Thomas Flanagan, superintendent of the asylum. This afternoon Mr. Meyer was planning to direct another group of scouts and a group of 50 students from the Roosevelt Junior high school. Another 1,000 trees are to be set out. The trees were secured from the state conservation commission by the asylum trustees.

Also on Saturday Mr. Trenk and Mr. Sell supervised the planting of four windbreaks on the following farms: Lawrence Kaufman, town of Grand Chute; Fred Wickesberg, town of Greenville; Robert Gosse, town of Seymour; and Arnold Burmeister, town of Cicero. Today Mr. Sell assisted a group of students at the Elm Tree rural school, town of Greenville, with the planting of a group of trees

Other plantings scheduled for this week by Mr. Sell include: Tuesday, R. J. Krause, town of Liberty, windbreak; John Diermeier, town of Bovina, windbreak; Ray Romm, town of Maine, sand hill; William Klatt, town of Center, windbreak.

Thursday, Method.st parsonage, town of Oneida, windbreak; silvery summit school, town of Oneida; Phil Engel, town of Seymour, windbreak; Guardian Angels school, Oneida.

About 5,000 white pine and spruce trees, furnished by the conservation commission, are being used in the work.

Relief Group To Ask State For $25,000

The Appleton Welfare and Relief council will file a claim this week with the state industrial commission for $25,000 which was expended for relief work in Appleton in 1931, according to Judge Fred V. Heinemann, president of the council. Judge Heinemann said the council is making the claim in behalf of the Appleton Home Aid society, which had charge of relief work last year.

Judge Heinemann said his decision to make application for the $25,000 was prompted by the action of the industrial commission in allowing a claim of the city of Madison. That city included in its claim for poor relief funds from the state an item of $18,000 spent by a relief organization. Of this amount, Judge Heinemann said, the commission allowed $13,000. If this precedent is followed Appleton should receive between $15,000 and $17,000 for its relief work in 1931.

OVER 30,000 SEE JUBILEE STREET PARADE

Opening Spectacle in Week's Celebration Is Impressive

With one eye on the weather and the other on one of the most colorful parades that ever coursed down College-ave, over 30,000 people from Appleton and surrounding territory craned their necks Saturday afternoon to get a full view of the opening spectacle of Appleton's Diamond Jubilee celebration.

Thousands of people stepped on each other's toes and elbowed their way to front line spots as the four mounted knights in gleaming silver helmets, spangled tights, and bright shoulder capes heralded from their long trumpets the approach of the 50 unit parade, which included 22 bands, in Appleton for the district band tournament.

Photographers climbed fire escapes to get pictures, invalids were wheeled to windows in downtown apartments, and scores of people found vantage points on store-roofs, fire escapes and in second-story windows.

For almost half an hour the bright colors of band uniforms and the picturesque floats reminiscent of early colonial days successfully defied the threatening weatherman, and although the skies intermittently clouded and brightened, the eager crowd paid little attention to a possible drenching after the parade once got under way.

Colors Come Next

The herald trumpeters, with their bobbing plumes, were followed by massed colors, the 120th Field Artillery Band and Company D. The first float, that of Pettibone Peabody company, depicted the exhibition by Betsy Ross of the first flag to George Washington and other colonial gentlemen. Directly behind this came the ivory and maroon-garbed Fond du Lac drum corps, which for an hour before the parade had given an exhibition of intricate drills in front of city hall and on the corner of College-ave and Oneida-st.

The picturesqueness of the bands, with their shining gold and silver horns, gala colored uniforms, and dramatic drum majors, almost outdid the music that poured from the scores of horns, trumpets, fifes and drums. White fur, black fur and bright colored shakoes with waving plumes of orange, blue, and red, and whirling batons brought much attention to the drum majors, who led their outfits down the avenue with the precision of field generals. The color combinations of the different bands, light blue and white, orange and black, red and white, black and yellow, black and white, and blue and gold—all with their gleaming silver buttons, bright braid, and cocky headgears—made these units the most colorful in the entire parade.

Variety of Floats

The John Haug float, "The First Citizen," showed a room in the home of Appleton's first citizen, with its barrel-hoop furniture and patchwork bedcover. The Appleton Post-Crescent float, "Before Yorktown," showed Washington and some of his aides studying plans for the battle, and a float prepared by Troop 1 of the Boy Scouts depicted a campfire scene at Valley Forge, with Washington praying while his wounded and tattered soldiers gazed despondently at a burned-out campfire. The Standard Manufacturing company float showed the first home in Appleton, the log cabin of Augustine Grignon, and the Lions club float showed the signing of the Treaty of the Cedars.

Totally lacking in parade technique, but with an appeal all their own, the newly organized "Cub" Boy Scouts claimed a steady round of healthy applause as they appeared in their first parade, garbed in their new uniforms of blue sweaters, bandanas, and baseball caps.

The two principal guests of honor of the day, William Bucholz, Bennett-st, the oldest man living who was born in Appleton and Solomon Rhoades, Medina, who in December will celebrate his one hundredth birthday anniversary, rode in the parade. Mr. Bucholz was born in Appleton in 1851.

A mounted police guard, 400 Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, the American Legion auxiliary, Daughters of the American Revolution, Women's Relief Corps, Spanish American War veterans and auxiliary, and the Eagles drum and bugle corps had places in the parade. High school bands which participated came from Appleton, East and West De Pere, Menasha, Manitowoc, Neenah, Weyauwega, Kaukauna, Chilton, Oshkosh, Oconto Falls, and Seymour.

The parade, which proceeded east on College-ave from Story-st to Lawe-st, was under the general direction of M. G. Clark, Valley Scout executive.

SELL SOUVENIR COINS TO DEFRAY CELEBRATION COST

Souvenir coins, bearing a bas-relief of George Washington in a familiar pose on a horse and an inscription commemorating the Appleton Diamond Jubilee and Washington bi-centennial celebration were placed on sale today by the Official Celebration committee. Proceeds from the sale are to be used toward defraying expenses of the celebration.

The souvenirs have been placed in the hands of a large number of persons who are asked to make an energetic effort to sell them. Thus far no appeals has been made to the public to defray expenses of the celebration and it is believed that the sale of coins will spread the cost over a large number of persons so that no one will be burdened. The coins sell for 50 cents each.

SEEK FUND TO SEND STUDENT TO EUROPE

Student subscriptions of the amounts to be donated to help some Lawrence college student to study in Europe for one year were received during student convocation at the chapel Monday morning. It is hoped that the student body can raise about $700 for the purpose. If this amount is pledged by the students as indicated by their subscriptions this morning, the money will be collected and the student selected. Three Lawrence college students have had the opportunity during the last four years, the plan being discontinued last year because of the economic depression.

PROBE ALLEGED ABDUCTION OF TWO CHILDREN

Claim Mother and Two Men, Posing as Officers, Took Pair Without Authority

District Attorney Edward S. Eick and Sheriff Gerhard B. Jensen of Calumet-co were planning to come to Appleton this afternoon to investigate the taking of two children from the home where they were being cared for by their mother and two men, who allegedly impersonated officers to secure custody of the children.

The taking of the children occurred between 2 and 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The children, two and four years old, were taken from the residence of Mrs. T. A. Bohan, who lives at Waverly beach. Their mother, Mrs. William Koletzke, formerly of Appleton, and Martin Black and Howard Hannon, who live near Hartshaw in Oneidaco, are said by Undersheriff Edward Lutz to have admitted taking the children.

Some time ago, according to court records, the children were taken away from their mother by an order of the county court. Two of the children were given to Mrs. Bohan to be cared for and the other two were placed in another home. Saturday afternoon, when Mrs. Bohan was in Appleton, Mrs. Koletzke and the two men called at the Bohan home. The two men impersonated officers, according to Undersheriff Lutz, and said they had a court order to return the children to their mother. They took the children and left.

Mrs. Bohan returned home shortly after and immediately notified the police. Lutz investigated and traced the trio to Oneida-co. There he enlisted the aid of Elmer Titus, a deputy sheriff, and accompanied by Deputy Sheriff Walter Gresenz, started for Oneida-co Saturday night. They first located Hannon at his home and he admitted driving the car and impersonating an officer to aid Mrs. Bohan in getting the children, Lutz reported. Going to the home of Mrs. Martin Black the officers found the children of Mrs. Koletzke. They brought the children back to their home here.

Details of the case were placed in the hands of Calumet-co officials, as that is where the children were when they were taken. An investigation is to be made this afternoon to determine if any action will be taken against Mrs. Koletzke, Black and Hannon.

Including Service

THE cost of a funeral represents much more than the mere value of the casket and other merchandise supplied. It includes the personal service of the funeral director—a service which covers a large number of details and relieves the bereaved family of many irksome tasks. It includes the advice and counsel of one who is familiar with all the legal and social formalities surrounding this period of trial, and has devoted his life to serving the interests of those who call upon him.

In celebration of the Diamond Jubilee and Bicentennial Week we have planned a sales event which in our opinion has had no parallel in the History of Radio, —

The Formal Introduction and Sale of the 1932 White House Model 10-tube, 2 Speaker

HOWARD

at $99.50

We have anticipated this event with unusual care, by informally introducing the Howard Radio during the past months; during that time, we have watched and tested the Howard's performance under all kinds of weather conditions and it is the experience gained as a result of these tests that prompt this statement —

"that this formal one week's introduction of Howard, is the greatest sales event in the History of Radio".

As an outstanding offer with which to commemorate the Diamond Jubilee celebration — we can conceive of nothing that will react as favorably to our old and new customers alike as the introduction of this perfectly marvelous Radio Receiver which has been especially engineered for the thirty-sixth Presidential Campaign.

LA FOLLETTE AGAINST CUTS IN U. S. WAGES

Claims He Is Supporting Pensions for Railroad Workers

BY RUBY A. BLACK
Post-Crescent Washington Correspondent

Washington — Thousands of multigraphed letters are going out from the office of Sen. Robert M. La Follette Jr. of Madison informing constituents that he is opposed to all federal wage cuts and is supporting pensions for railway workers.

So many letters have been received by him on these subjects that it is impossible to answer them personally, Sen. John J. Blaine of Boscobel is taking similar action.

Apparently every railroad worker in Wisconsin has sent a postal card to each senator urging the pension measure. Sen. La Follette does not commit himself to any specific railroad pension measure, there being a divergence of opinion on the details of the legislation, and he not being a member of the committee considering the bills, but he assures the 2,500 to whom he is sending the letters that he is "in favor of the objectives sought to be obtained."

On the wage cut question, Sen La Follette unequivocally opposes lowering government salaries at this time, saying:

"The actual saving made by cutting the salaries of government employees would constitute a very small proportion of the federal budget.

"A more important consideration is the probability that federal salary cuts would encourage further wage cuts by private employers. We cannot escape from the present depression by cutting down wages to the bare subsistence level or below it.

"Recovery from the depression can be brought about only by increasing, instead of decreasing, the buying power of persons with small incomes who constitute the great majority of our citizens."

If May 2nd is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8:15 a. m. to 10 a. m., from 2:40 p. m. to 4 p. m., and from 7 p. m. to 8:15 p. m. The danger periods are from noon to 1 p. m. and from 10:30 p. m. to midnight.

The world will begin business on May 2nd with a spirit of industry and optimism, and most plans will be pushed through with unusual ease. A frivolous mood will capture the evening hours, and the gods of happiness promise to make social functions a huge success from the standpoint of fun.

The child born on this May 2nd will know its own mind, and will get its own way if it can. It will grow out of its childish stubbornness and develop into a being of decision and purpose. It will be courageous without being foolhardy.

Born on May 2nd, you have a brave, optimistic, fighting nature, and you do not easily chuck your hand in. It will be the things over which you seem to have no control that will beat you; not the things wherein yours is the master mind or hand. You never make a statement unless you are sure of your figures, and are known as a man or woman of your word. You have positive opinions, but they are not so set that you need to measure everything with your own yardstick.

There are times when you feel inarticulate, leaving much for translation. This is true about the tender, intimate things which you wish to say to people and cannot. Your hand clasp, or eyes, often reveal more than your words have expressed. There are very few people with whom you really have mental kinship, and these few are of priceless value to you. You are often a very lonely and misunderstood being because of the isolation of your spirits.

You have money sense and keen business acumen, and should enter one of the commercial fields of endeavor. Your pet hobbies and love of reading will keep you from ever becoming a slave to any job. One of your favorite gods is punctuality, which will be a life long habit with you. You will seldom be merrily happy, but you will know the restful contentment of a philosopher.

WHAT TOMORROW MEANS TO YOU
By MARY BLAKE
"TAURUS"

If May 3rd is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a. m. to 12:15 p. m., from 5:30 p. m. to 7 p. m., and from 9 p. m. to 10:20 p. m. The danger periods are from 6:45 a. m. to 8 a. m., and from 2 p. m. to 4 p. m.

Astrological indications for May 3rd: To the worldly ambitious, it will be a flat, uninteresting time. To the scholar and student, it should be a time of inspiration and revelation. To sweethearts, it will be a time of probable quarrels and misunderstanding.

Children born on this May 3rd will have thoughtful, studious natures, and will be old for their age. The customary diversions of boys and girls will leave them cold, and they will have little tolerance for any make-believe games. They will be faithful to their duties, and loyal to their friends.

The innate possibilities revealed in your horoscopical character analysis are far beyond the realities which will be recorded in your life history. There is a wide mark between what you could be and what you are. Indifference is a retarding factor to your growth in both a mental and spiritual way. You catch fleeting visions of beautiful heights to which your mind and soul could give you access, if you would only give them free rein. You could care desperately about many things if you allowed yourself to really think and to feel. Your better self is often disgusted at the things you allow yourself to do, and the other things which you never do. You are full of intentions in a world which credits only that which is done, and as Tennyson has said, is cold to all that which might have been.

You often find yourself in despondents moods, and at such times you wish to be alone. You are not naturally churlish, but there are times when you become completely "fed up" with everything and everybody. You are naturally witty and possess real intellect. You can present a very attractive and engaging personality. If necessary, you can pull the wool over other people's eyes without their knowing it, but it is difficult for them to do the same to you. Love in a cottage would not satisfy one of your temperament.

Successful People Born on May 3rd:

2—William L. Wilson, author of Wilson Tariff Bill.
3—Wilbur O. Atwater, chemist.
4—Mary Astor, movie artist.
5—Jacob A. Riis, reformer.

Piles Go Quick
Without Salves or Cutting

Itching, bleeding, protruding piles are caused by bad circulation of the blood in the affected parts. The parts become weak, flabby, almost dead. Only an internal remedy can remove the cause—that's why salves, suppositories and cutting fail. Dr. Leonhardt's prescription, HEM-ROID, succeeds because it removes congestion, restores circulation, heals and strengthens the diseased parts. HEM-ROID had such a wonderful record of quickly ending even piles of long standing, that Schlintz Bros. says one bottle of HEM-ROID Tablets must end your pile agony or money back. Adv.

THE VOLCANO IN HAWAII

Unpopular as the verdict in the cause celebre at Honolulu will probably be, we think it evidenced a manly and determined purpose upon the part of the jury to return that territory into the precious precincts of law and order, born of a tardy but full realization of the fearful havoc which results when we weaken the steady, unalloyed justice which can only flow forth from a strong and fearless judicial system.

Of course, the jurors knew that the defendants were guilty and that Lieut. Massie was not insane at the time he killed the native brute who attacked his wife.

The evidence was so plain that no great number of people could seriously contend otherwise, but the situation presented was one of those extremely difficult ones where people will conclude that justice according to the books becomes injustice in fact, that, in the words of an ancient writer, "Strict law sometimes becomes severe injustice."

The trial judge said to the jury: "No man may take the law into his own hands, and the alleged fact that the deceased ravaged the wife of one of the defendants cannot be considered at all except as it may have affected the sanity of the defendant, Massie."

That left three of the defendants without any possible defense. Concededly they had conspired to kidnap the deceased and when their conspiracy, whatever its original purpose may have been, ended in murder, they became, according to a very necessary rule of law, murderers.

The plea of insanity here was a mere pretext to excuse the jury, or rather to provide it a glib excuse for freeing those who have taken the law into their own hands. The question the defense really wanted submitted was not whether Lieut. Massie was insane at the time of the killing but: "Do you, under all the facts of the case, blame the lieutenant for what he did?"

We like to picture justice as blindfolded but we cannot blindfold the jury. Few jurors indeed would find it easy to send this square-jawed naval officer and his determined mother-in-law to prison for a long period, simply because they would insist upon looking beyond the immediate murder and at the previous night of horror. Their verdict under the circumstances reflects further honor upon them.

* * *

If the mind of Lieut. Massie might be accurately read we probably would learn that he determined to first give the law a fair opportunity of avenging the outrage perpetrated upon Mrs. Massie, and that only when he found that the scoundrels successfully invoked what is becoming almost an American custom of further assailing and shaming the woman because she was the principal witness to identify the accused, that he deliberately determined to execute a little justice himself.

The attack upon Mrs. Massie for which the five were arrested was hardly worse than the assault upon her in court. It was bestial and its torture was only increased by the inscrutable smile on the polyglot Asiatic countenance of Hawaii that took it all in between shaking cocktails and shaking hula-hulas.

A great many people have seen justice miscarry and accepted the result. Theoretically we should all do so but that is based upon the theory that justice is going to be honest. Hawaii merely has demonstrated that there are depths to which wrongs may stab that although they do not cause insanity, provoke hatred and inspire revenge that so consume the person affected that he becomes willing to risk his own liberty or sacrifice his life in order to prevent the guilty from going free. And when a situation of that kind has arisen it is difficult to get a jury to inflict further torments upon those who have already innocently suffered almost to capacity.

* * *

"Lax law enforcement," caused the crime, say those familiar with the Hawaiian situation, including the disinterested and impartial investigators of the federal government. But that merely means a lax people. So long as we have democracy its faults are the faults of the people just as its virtues reflect their virtues. When we pick out some particular governor, district attorney or sheriff for blame we are generally looking for a goat; and it takes a great herd of goats to make "lax law enforcement."

A careless, indifferent people elect sheriffs who protect special friends, prosecutors who play favorites or do not take seriously the extremely important functions of government committed to their hands; or when they themselves sit upon juries fail to appreciate that jurors who do not do their duties are as recreant to a trust as a cabinet member who takes bribes.

* * *

The lax situation naturally germinated insolence upon the part of those inclined to violate laws, and insolence unpunished, always increases at an alarming rate.

In other words the law in Hawaii had become a mere skeleton. It had neither life, color nor complexion. Its mind was dull and turgid. Its eyes were bleary from oversleep. Its ears were clogged with filth. It needed something more than a bath, massage, and a kick in the pants. It needed a gun. It got it.

Injustice has roots and branches that go to inconceivable lengths. It produces vile and deadly secretions that insidiously destroy the pillars of good government, however faithfully erected in the first place. It infects the very air we breathe. It will blot a people just as completely as corruption.

Lieut. Massie fired a shot that removed a less than worthless life. That shot took the inscrutable Asiatic smile off the polyglot face of Hawaii. There are certain laws, the breach of which cannot be looked upon by any countenance but one that is cold as ice and stern as steel.

In order to demonstrate that its reform is not merely casual, Hawaii must convict the four living criminals who participated in the attack upon Mrs. Massie.

THE WAY FAME WORKS

Edwin Markham, the poet, said recently that he wished people would forget, for a while at least, that he ever wrote a poem called "The Man With the Hoe."

This poem, which made him world-famous when he wrote it some three decades ago, and which is as much alive today as it ever was, follows him, he complained, like an avenging ghost. He has written many other poems and he thinks that some of them have a lot more artistic worth; but no matter what he does or where he goes, he is still known as the author of "The Man With the Hoe," and he's getting a bit tired of it.

All of which, of course, is just another interesting little sidelight on the way fame works.

People like to couple a man's name with one outstanding feat. Once they do this the man's fame is secure, and he can bask in the knowledge that he won't be forgotten; but he may eventually find, as Mr. Markham has found, that he will never be given credit for doing anything else. From that moment on he is a one-achievement man.

Consider, for instance, Richmond P. Hobson, whose long public career faded into nothing, in the public mind, beside the fact that he sank the Merrimac at the mouth of Santiago harbor during the Spanish war.

Then there are James Monroe, about whom the ordinary citizen knows absolutely nothing except that while president he fomulated the Monroe doctrine; and Aaron Burr, remembered solely because he killed Alexander Hamilton in a duel; and Henry Clay, about whom we recall nothing except that he had a pleasing knack of devising compromises; and Stephen A. Douglas, who debated with Lincoln; and Benjamin Franklin, whom many remember only in connection with a certain kite-flying episode.

And so it goes. If you are ambitious, beware of a tag; it may make your fame endure, but it will also make it a bit lop-sided.

The Massie trial is over. No matter how you feel about the manslaughter verdict, the trial is over. And, in all the years of newspaper names for murderers ("hammer, "torch" and the like) this is the first time we've heard any one called "honor" killers.

This is turning out to be a great column for a day like Monday. We're about to reprint the note a young fellow down east wrote as he was committing suicide by inhaling gas:

"It is just a little after 6:30 p. m. I just turned on the gas. I am going to another world and I am afraid to live in this one. Good-by. The blood is beginning to pound in my temples. It does not hurt. It is getting warm. I can feel my heart working fast, fast, fast. My head is in trouble now. I am getting a bit dizzy now. The gas does not smell unpleasantly. I picked this chair because it is comfortable to sit in while the gas is on. Just sitting back and relaxing. It won't be long now. I want to be buried in these clothes. I am going, going, going. Ha! Ha! . . ."

And that's the last he ever wrote. In wanting to be buried in "these clothes" he was referring to the freshly pressed suit he had put on.

Just Folks

PARTNERSHIP

What matter wind or bitter weather
If we can brave them out together?

What matter poverty or pain
If sharing them we can remain?

Is it important we should be
From every dreadful doubting free?

Together we have strength to bear
The burdens and the weights of care.

Together, with the family whole
We can develop strength of soul.

And find that rapture and delight
Of being strong and keeping right.

Our little unit love has made
Should face the future unafraid.

Looking Backward

TEN YEARS AGO

Monday, May 1, 1922

The Appleton Post-Crescent that day began offering to its readers the complete report of the Associated Press.

The marriage of Miss Mabel Reinke, 727 Atlantic-st. to W. H. Langlois, Kaukauna, took place that morning at St. Joseph church.

A marriage license was issued that day to Clifford A. Stammer, Appleton, and Miss Manila Fulver, Kimberly.

Miss Mary Balliet spent the previous weekend with friends at New London.

Mr. and Mrs. James Cline had returned to their home on North-st after spending the winter at Fort Atkinson.

Miss Clara Derga, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Derga, 900 College-ave, left for Chicago the previous day where she was to be employed.

La Vahn Maesch, Appleton high school senior, won first place in a district typewriting contest the previous Saturday in Menasha by writing 1,280 words in 15 minutes.

A. Slater visited friends at Milwaukee the previous day.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Monday, May 6, 1907

Appleton was to have two new industries within a few weeks which were to employ about 100 persons between them. Articles had been filed with the secretary of state incorporating the Appleton Coated Paper company, with Curtis A. Bynum, C. S. Boyd, and John Lowe as incorporators. Emil Zwicker had leased the watch factory for two years and was soon to operate one of the largest knitting factories in Wisconsin.

Frank Spielbauer was to leave about the middle of the week for Seattle, Wash., with his family to make his future home.

Vincent Hoyer and Joseph Brandt left that day for Winona where they were to be employed in a saw mill.

Mrs. Otto Van Heuklon and son, George, left that morning for Milwaukee where they were to spend a few days with Bert Van Heuklon.

Marriage licenses were issued the previous Saturday to Julius Wickesberg, Grand Chute, and Agnes Becher, Appleton; John E. Becher and Anna Prust, both of Appleton.

Mr. and Mrs. Bertin Ramsay and daughter, Ethel, who had been spending the preceding three months in Europe, sailed the previous Saturday for New York and were expected to arrive in Appleton the latter part of the week.

An automatic robot pilot has been approved for use on commercial passenger planes in Cleveland.

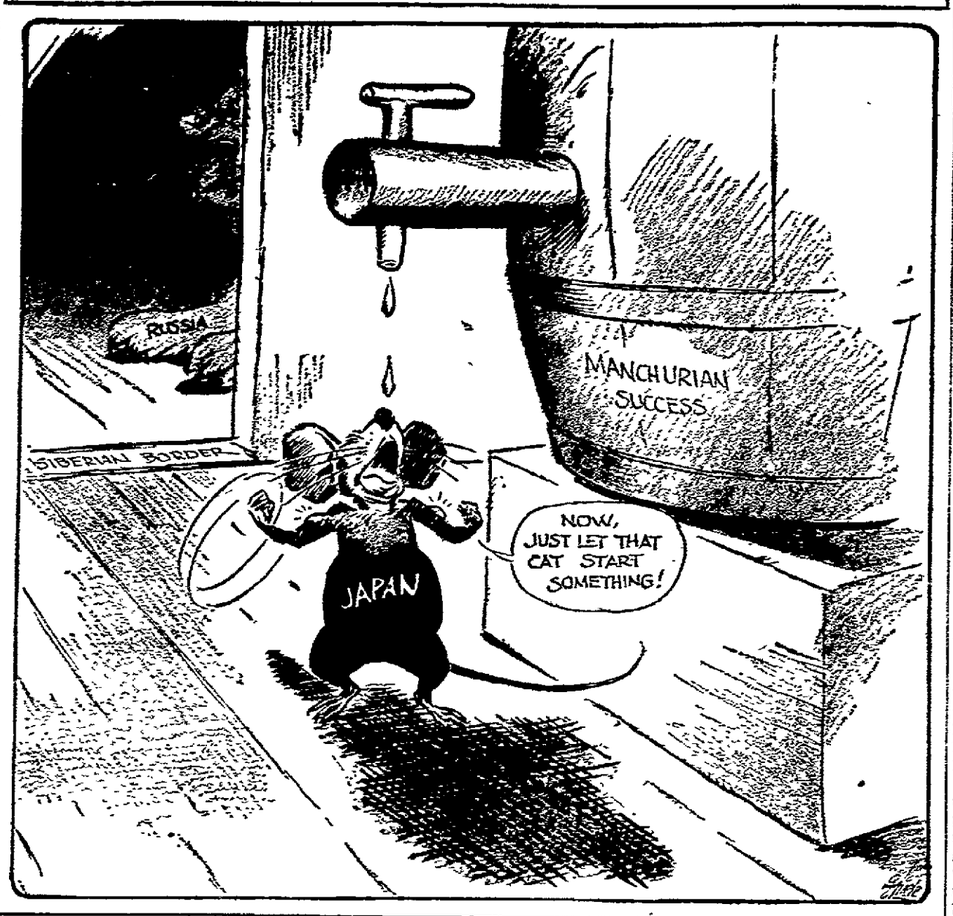
A Barrel of Trouble!



Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

A MODERN MEDICAL MIRACLE

A New York correspondent writes that these articles are much enjoyed by him and have brought benefit to his family and friends. Then he deposes and says:

Several years ago at the age of 63 while doing clerical work involving much telephoning, I suddenly became quite ill with dizziness, a decided deafness in one ear, followed by nausea and violent vomiting. A feeling of grogginess produced an unsteadyness on my feet, causing me to stagger through the streets like a drunken sailor—not the least distressing condition. My appetite seemed unimpaired but the uncertainty of balance and frequent recurrence of the vomiting, usually preceded by increased head noises and a feverish condition, made me miserable.

Doctor prescribed rest, diet . . Ear specialist did help to partially restore the hearing, but there was no lasting benefit.

Finally I placed myself in the hands of Dr. ———, an osteopathic physician . . .

It is immaterial whether the physician is osteopathic, homeopathic, phychopathic or what have you. Enough that he is a physician duly licensed by the state. His pathy or his pathetic pretenses need not concern us, further than to wonder why a good man should resort to that quaint trick to appeal to the credulity of the public.

. . . Dr. ——— became much interested. After a number of examinations he decided that I might benefit by having my tonsils removed. He could remove the tonsils by either the regular surgical tonsillectomy or by the diathermy method.

I decided on the latter. He proved to be expert with the method. I cannot say too much in praise of his technic, involving a deftness and gentleness . . There was practically no pain or discomfort. Little time from one's occupation is required though of course the process is slower and means more visits to the doctor's office. But from a mere layman's point of view it seems safe, as it involves no loss of blood or serious after-effects of which we hear so much.

It has helped me wonderfully. My hearing has been restored to such an extent that I can again carry on conversation without asking for constant repetition, and music has once more become enjoyable to me.

Ten or fifteen years ago this patient could not have made such a recovery without undergoing the hazard, a real hazard at that age, of surgical tonsillectomy.

Even today a good many regular physicians and throat specialists would offer such a patient no alternative to the old Spanish custom.

This osteopath deserves credit for his ability as a physician, even if he does adhere to the hallowed quackery of pretending to practice a narrow little system. I'd say the same thing if he purported to be a homeopath, an eclectic, or an "allopath"—whatever that may be. All these alleged "paths" are just an appeal to popular gullibility, to prejudice. For rately a physician may be a good physician even if his education is all in one direction. It is the system of medical education which is at fault, not the practitioner. Our medical educational system is a comical thing. Too much old-fogyism in it, and too much political graft.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Good Idea From Good Book

One of your correspondents asked if rocking a baby while nursing would interfere with the baby's breathing. In a book called "Simplifying Motherhood" I read that the nursing mother should take care the baby does not shut off his own wind by pressing his nose tightly against the breast. This book contains many practical helps which I have found invaluable in the breast feeding of my babies. I would be glad to loan it to you if you wish to see it. (Mrs. W. M. McC.)

Answer—Thank you. It is a fine book, by Dr. Richardson. Your public library probably has it. The technic of nursing the baby is well worth any mother's or prospective mother's careful study. The breast fed baby gains an advantage over the bottle fed baby that lasts year or a lifetime.

Nearsighted

I am very nearsighted, have been wearing very heavy lenses for 15 years. Recently I have heard there are exercises which will strengthen the eyes and enable one to discard glasses . . . (Miss S. F.)

Answer—Well, there are no such exercises, except in the back pages of snide magazines. The best exercise for nearsighted eyes is viewing distant scenery. The wise young person with nearsightedness will wear correct lenses for all near work, in order to conserve the vision. Also such young persons should have the benefit of eye examination and fitting of glasses while the eyes are under the resting or relaxing influence of drops.

The Tinymites

By Hal Cochran

THE rubber horse bounced 'round and 'round and soon the little skinny found that he was making all the Tinies giggle right out loud.

To them it was a sight to see, as funny as a sight could be. It isn't any wonder that the skinny felt real proud.

Said Scouty, "Say, you're doing fine. I wish that funny horse was mine. I'd ride on him the live-long day and let the others try.

"He's made of rubber. I can't see how you can ride so easily. It is a wonder you don't bounce away up toward the sky."

* * *

"Aw, it's not hard, when you know how," the skinny said. "I will allow you all to have a little ride, if you don't scare my horse.

"There is a path that leads right through the big tree trunks and I'm sure you can make him follow that long trail. It is a riding course."

"Of course we can," one Tiny said. "We'll make the horse go straight ahead." And then the skinny cried, "All right," and jumped down to the ground.

Wee Scouty was the first to try to ride the horse and me, oh my, it made him rather dizzy when the horse went 'round and 'round.

* * *

Then Coppy did as he was told. He sat up very brave and bold and loudly shouted, "Giddyap!" The horse walked nice and straight.

Then Windy also had some fun and when his little ride was done wee Duncy said, "It's my turn now. Gee, I can hardly wait."

He scrambled to the horse's back and gave his side a friendly crack. The rubber horse seemed mad, though, and poor Duncy shortly found the others laughing loud in glee. And why they did it, he could see.

A Bystander In Washington

BY HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington—Sen. Lynn Frazier of North Dakota has made available to those members of congress in both house and senate who must stand for reelection this year something that might prove a valuable campaign document.

The senator has encountered a gentleman around the capital who has been measuring the heads of senators and representatives, applying the findings to a formula in an endeavor to determine the relation of their brain weight to their legislative ability.

A total of 89.71 representatives and 18 senators have had their heads measured for length, width and height thus far and their brain weight estimated.

Just who they are is not known. In a series of imposing looking tables which Senator Frazier got permission to print in the Congressional Record the other day, only numbers are used.

However, it is disclosed that the average brain weight of a senator is two ounces more than that of a representative and that a senator's legislative ability credits average 921 to 258 for a representative.

Technical Process

The method employed to determine the weight of a congressman's brain and thus his possible legislative ability is a highly interesting if technical process.

Suppose for example the length of his head is found to be 201 millimeters (8 inches), the width 152 millimeters (5 inches), and the height 146 millimeters (5 inches).

Then your formula is like this:

((201 — 11) x (152 — 11) x (146 — 11) x .000337) plus 406 01 equals 1,625 cubic centiments (98 cubic inches), the cranial capacity of the congressman. Then multiply this by .95 and you get 1,543 grams (54 ounces), the weight of the congressman's brain.

World Competition

It is the hope of Senator Frazier's anthropologist or whatever you call a man engaged in this field of research, that congress will set the example in conducting studies such as these, so that eventually there may be established a comparison between legislatures of different nations.

"As all legislative bodies are competitive," it is pointed out, "success is necessarily connected with merit.

"Also most legislative activities are not arbitrary, but all have certain courses and may follow a law yet unknown which future scientific research may discover, and thus lead to changes in rules of legislative procedure."

Seen And Heard In New York

BY WILLIAM GAINES

New York—Broadway is still blinking at the lessons in publicity it has been learning from little Peggy Fears, the former show girl who turned producer.

Remembered as a beauty of the "Follies" ensemble and known to the get-abouts as the wife of the millionaire real estate wizard and theatrical angel, A. C. Blumenthal, Miss Fears yet was a comparative stranger to the public at the beginning of this public season.

But then came a series of sensational episodes preceding and following the announcement of her intention to put her own show on Broadway.

In one way and another, the police department and the mayor of New York, and the congress and the President of the United States were linked with Miss Fears' name. It was something to dazzle the veteran producers of the Stem and to make the Dallas, Texas, girl as well known, hereabouts, as Senator Borah or Aimee McPherson.

All-Star Publicity

The police department, it should be recalled, did not enter into the picture in connection with the show, but was called upon to protect Miss Fears herself against a "dastardly" kidnaping plot.

Mayor Walker, a close friend of the Blumenthals, wrote a letter praising her production which was reproduced in advertisements. Congressman Sirovich, in anguish over what some of the dramatic critics thought about some of the shows, brought Miss Fears to the attention of a group of lawmakers of the nation.

Her show took a rapping from the critics, but Miss Fears smilingly said she thought the critics had been fair.

I met Miss Fears for the first time when she stepped off the train from Washington. President Hoover had just received her and her husband at the White House, after her testimony before the Sirovich committee. She was flushed with the success of that invasion of Washington.

There have been insinuations that all of the hullabaloo was created by the magic touch of Blumenthal, who can have done most of the things he wants done along Broadway. But anyone who knows Miss Fears even slightly does not doubt that her quick mind is capable of ingenuity. She may be beautiful, but Peggy Fears Blumenthal certainly never was dumb.

New Star in the Sky

Looking over the Fears record for the season, several less amazing contributions to Broadway conversation stand out as evidence of her sense for publicity.

She has made the best of the talents of Dorothy Hall who, laboring under some handicap in her leading role, cleared them all and became one of the talked-of players of the year. Miss Fears, I understand, got rid of two directors because they couldn't see Miss Hall in her part. She could.

Another talking point was the producer's introduction of a couple of well known society girls as bit players.

Blumenthal, or "A. C." as he is generally called, takes to the background voluntarily when his wife is in action. He was born in San Rafael, Cal., and has made real estate history in Los Angeles. There he met Miss Fears, who had movie aspirations.

On May 2, 1918, French and British troops on the Somme sector improved their positions by a series of short attacks on ground recently taken from them by the Germans.

German activity was confined principally to a heavy bombardment of the Bethune area, but the expected attack was not delivered.

Allied observers declared that the German position was not nearly so favorable as at the time of the beginning of their first offensive in March.

PREFERRED SHARES OF UNITED STATES STEEL CUMULATIVE

If Dividends Are Not Paid on Stock They Become a Charge

BY GEORGE T. HUGHES
(Copyright, 1932, by Cons. Press)

The United States Steel Corporation was organized February 23, 1901. In that year it paid $5.25 a share in dividends on the preferred stock. Since that time the regular $7 rate has been paid without interruption and gradually the issue came to be recognized as an investment of the most conservative type. The other day in response to conditions in the steel trade and reflecting the general industrial depression the stock sold at the lowest price since 1907.

Steel preferred is a cumulative stock. If dividends are not paid in any one year they become a charge which must be liquidated before anything can be paid on the common. If dividends on the preferred are reduced the deficiency must be made up before the junior shareholders receive anything on their investment. Steel preferred is preferred not only as to dividends but as to assets. If the company were to go out of business, sell its properties, pay off all its bills and turn all its assets into cash the preferred stockholders would receive $100 a share before the common stockholders received anything.

With this as a basis let us analyze the position of the preferred, always on the understanding that no prediction is made or implied as to the future of the market price. There are 3,602,311 shares of Steel preferred outstanding with a par value of $100 per share or $360,231,100 at part. The other day the preferred stock sold around $80 a share. At that price the market valued the issue at $288,000,000.

Now the Steel Corporation, according to its latest balance sheet had current assets in excess of current liabilities in the amount of $430,651,669. Subtracting funded debt of subsidiaries and miscellaneous obligations of the corporation itself which in round numbers amount to $120,000,000 we have $310,000,000 left. Bearing in mind the preference of the senior stock as to assets, we arrive at the conclusion that the buyer of Steel preferred at 80 obtains the Steel plant which the balance sheet values at over a billion and a half dollars for less than nothing.

This does not mean that it is impossible or even improbable that an investor or speculator may buy Steel preferred at a lower price than the one obtaining now. It does throw light on the relation between prevailing quotations in the stock market and actual values.

Health Of Child Must Be Guarded

BY ANGELO PATRI

Health is the source of all beauty, all joy, all successes. What will it matter if we are the richest people in the world, the bravest, the most resourceful, if there be no health in us? What health can be in us if our children are not fair to look upon this May morning?

I know that thought rules the world. I know, too, and I know it because I have touched the lives of thousands and thousands of our children, that health determines the quality and the power of that thought. No good thought can live in an unhealthy mind and a healthy mind lives only in a carefully tended body. If you point to the few geniuses who were invalids I shall sorrowfully point you toward the institutions where unhealthy thinking born of unhealthy living that produced the unhealthy bodies, are confined prisoners of the society they offended.

It is not much to the credit of a society that allows many of its youth to lose their way, that builds reform schools and jails to hold them. Better far had we begun on the day they were born to rear them in health, and to lead them in healthy ways. The beginning is very important. The mother must be helped to maintain her health for the sake of the coming child. Home must be trained to healthy ways for the sake of the children it rears. Streets and parks and schools must be dedicated to health for the sake of the children they carry. There must be health in us in our entirety if we are to continue as the people we believe ourselves to be.

This is the concern of every man and woman who has the mind to consider life's values. The neglected child is the intimate concern of each of us though he may be beyond the reach of our authority, beyond the circle immediately our own. They are our own. How are we to know which child is the Moses of his generation, the Michael Angelo, the Roosevelt, the Steinmetz? Which the helpless one so dangerous to his day and generation?

It is not enough that we build splendid schools for some of the children. It is not enough that we have clinics and hospitals for some of the ailing ones. It is not enough to know that some of our children have good homes and pleasant play spaces. Not until we are certain that none is fallen unheeded, can we rest.

We take children too much for granted. We are so busy about less important matters. It might be well to begin this day of May and look at the children close to us. How healthy are they? What health is in their behavior? That is the test of health. Behavior.

Teach health. Teach right thinking right living. Work to rear the complete child, the healthy child. His eyes are clear as heaven's sky. His step is sure and his touch certain. His speech is cleancut and his laughter easy. He enjoys hunger and the weather and conflict and calls it all fun. His curiosity is unbounded and his heart knows no fear. Life is his own apple and he sinks his teeth into it with relish and good will. Each day is a feast full of the salt and savour of life for there is health in him—and the promise of life triumphant.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, inclosing stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

TREE PLANTING EXHIBITS ARE WELL ATTENDED

Six Demonstrations Conducted in County Friday and Saturday

BY W. F. WINSEY

Fairly large groups of farmers attended the six tree planting demonstrations conducted Friday and Saturday by County Agent G. A. Sell and F. B. Trenk, the latter a tree-planting specialist with the College of Agriculture. Beside farmers, the tree planting drew out large groups of school children, women and boy scouts. The farmers were interested in talks by the specialists, on the various use of tree, soils adaptable to each kind of evergreen and planting, fertilization and care of pine seedlings. They also were interested in the planting of wind breaks to shelter their farm buildings. Several farmers pointed to trees that their fathers planted years ago in the farmyards, along the roadsides, and here and there in the fields. Those trees are now large. Those in the yards are finishing decorations and shade for people as are also those lining the highways. Those here and there in the fields supply shade for cattle on hot days in summer and in so doing testify to the good sense of the planter and owner. The women in the tree-planting groups appeared to be more interested in trees and tree planting than the men. After the talks each person, small and large, who had a shovel or could borrow one, joined in the tree planting at the demonstrations.

Saturday morning Mr. Sell and Mr. Trenk, started ten boy scouts on the project of planting 2,000 pine seedlings on the farm of the Outagamie County Asylum. The first squad was to plant till noon and then be relieved by a fresh squad. The project will be continued by the relief plan until the 2,000 seedlings are planted. The asylum help is assisting the scouts in the heavier work and also in the actual planting.

Wind break planting demonstrations were staged by Mr. Sell and Mr. Trenk, Saturday, on the following named farms: Lawrence Kaufman's, town of Grand Chute; Fred Wickesberg's, Greenville; Robert Gosse's, Seymour; and Arnold Burmeister's, town of Cicero.

On Friday afternoon, the series of wind break planting demonstrations was started by Mr. Sell and Mr. Trenk on the farm of Adrian Van Roy, town of Vandenbroek, and was continued at the Immaculate Conception school Oneida.

The STORY OF SUE

By Margery Hale

As the handwriting expert announced that he had something interesting to say concerning the relationship of the two handwriting specimens Ruth caught her breath. Then she let it escape with a choking little sound.

"The same person did both of them, didn't he?" she asked.

The man nodded. "He did. No doubt about it."

"That's all I wanted to know. How much is it, please?"

"Never mind. I'm taking care of this." Arnold Page waved her voice aside.

"But I'm not delivering this information to . . . headquarters. I'm keeping it to myself!" Ruth answered quickly. "That is—until I'm sure, and even then, if I can clear the thing up without anyone else knowing, won't it be all right? I can tell you this for sure . . . the party involved didn't know he was being involved. I'd stake my life on that!"

"You needn't tell, Miss Bradley. It is quite all right. But it limits the rest of us. We hardly know where to turn," Page answered.

"Then don't do anything! Let me look after this. Please, won't you?"

Page agreed. Ruth made another suggestion. "If you don't mind, I won't go home just now. I have an errand I should do. It's about this . . . trouble. Could I meet you at your mother's, Sue, in an hour or so?"

"Of course," Sue was beginning, when she remembered that she would have no way of getting home even then. There was no bus that went very near to the house.

"I'll get a taxicab" Ruth said, as though sensing her question. "You don't mind, do you?"

Left alone, outside the building, because she had refused a lift any place, Ruth started down the street to Dr. Raynor's office. She had remembered that this was the night when he was in the office, receiving patients, arranging prescriptions, and all the rest.

She didn't quite know what her line of approach was going to be. She raised her head and let the cold night air fan her cheeks. The stars were as bright as they had been two weeks ago. The shop lights were as radiant. But somehow the whole meaning of the picture was gone. Had been ever since Joe Raynor had told her that he was going to marry Sally. Funny, she mused, the havoc that one man could play with a girl's life. Small good it did to tell yourself that there were other braver, better men. No girl could ever take her own advice.

She turned in at the entrance of the office. It was in a large brown house that had been remodeled for a few offices. Dr. Raynor's office opened onto the porch. The reception room was empty. Ruth could see it from the street. Maybe he had gone to see Sally this early. She opened the door. The clock whose hands proclaimed the coming and going of the physician announced that he was in.

Ruth sat down. She felt strangely out of place in the office. She noticed the magazines on the table. Their covers were still shiny and unworn. Evidently no patients had had to wait very long for appointments. Business must not be very good. There was a scrap of lace in the corner of a big chair. Mechanically she stooped over, picked it up, and spread it out. It had an "S" in the corner. The half-haunting odor of Sally's perfume lingered on it. Ruth dropped it quickly.

Dr. Raynor was opening the door of his office. She wondered how she should begin.

Next: Ruth questions Dr. Raynor.

WE WOMEN

By Virginia Vane

WHAT'S SAUCE FOR THE GOOSE —WIFE SHOULD NOT LET HUSBAND SENSE JEALOUSY

Dear Miss Vane: I am quite sure that my husband loves me and I know I love him better than anything else in the world. We have been good companions for years, I am still young and reasonably attractive, he is good-looking, we seem to be an ideal couple. He always shows me the greatest devotion and we plan always to do things together. But at the same time he has suddenly begun to show some interest in another woman. Nothing serious at all—only we met her at a bridge night and she was certainly the most vivacious, noisest person there. She is attractive and my husband paid a lot of attention to her. Then he told me he was taking her to lunch one day because she works downtown near him. I shouldn't mind that as I have plenty of men friends who take me to lunch occasionally—but I am worried. I must admit. He sees her for lunch every once in a while and always tells me about it. Also he tells me the things they talk about and quotes her occasionally. Tell me how to handle this problem. I want to be sane about it all. I don't want to make scenes but I am worried.

—MODERN WIFE.

If you have always had men friends with whom to lunch on special occasions, you haven't any real kick about the present situation—except perhaps that the lady in the case seems infinitely more attractive than she need be.

Perhaps you've always had the separate luncheon dates, while your husband hasn't availed himself of modern privileges—so that his sudden change has disquited you. Very often the lady of the house who lays down broad-minded advanced rules for herself is apt to turn suddenly old-fashioned when her husband chooses to adopt them as his own. In any event, it wouldn't be fair or good policy to make a fuss about these recent luncheon dates. The chances are a hundred to one that friend husband is merely attracted by the vivacity and pep of his new friend—that he enjoys meeting her for lunch because she stimulates and amuses him—and that she hasn't the faintest chance in the world of taking your place in his heart and mind.

Since you two have begun marriage on the assumption that you could have friends as you wished and see them independently of each other—it would be unwise now to make trouble and so make this little flurry of grave importance.

COLD CREAM ON EARS GIVES NEW BEAUTY TO THEM

BY ALICIA HART

Ears get precious little attention in the average beauty routine. Keeping them clean seems to be about all the thought the average woman gives them.

One exceptionally well-groomed woman among my acquaintances told me that she has never let one day go by without cold creaming and massaging her ears.

"You'd be surprised how massaging the ears gently and the glands around the ears relieves nervous tension," she remarked.

Certain it is that after a head cold, or sinus trouble or the flu, care of the ears is an excellent idea.

Never poke about your ears. Everyone knows that first precaution. Just a little bit of cotton, dipped into freshener or clear water, is the best way to cleanse the very inside.

Dab onto each ear, in turn, some of your nicest cold cream, and gently follow the ear, and down under the lobe.

It does relax you. If you are tense and nervous, just this extra bit of massage has a real effect in lightening the tension.

More than that, taking exceptional care of the ears, along with your face and neck, gives you that well-groomed confidence that the meticulous woman has.

Rouging the ears still is being done by some exotic women. Earrings are having a mild vogue, with new coiffures. Pearls, tight to the ear lobe, are preferred by most earringed ladies.

When you finish creaming your ears the next time you are dressing, dust them over with powder. Now touch each ear lobe with a drop of your favorite perfume and place another little drop back of the ear, at the top. Perfume placed on the skin has a much more natural and pleasing effect than if put on some fabric medium. And the ears just naturally call for a dash of fragrance.

MY NEIGHBOR Says —

When setting dishes on the ice to cool quickly, place jar rubbers under them and they will not slip.

Do not throw away the outside leaves of cauliflower. Cut in inch pieces, boil until tender and serve with a white sauce.

Be sure to leave sufficient space between the walls of the refrigerator and the dishes between them and between the dishes on the shelves to allow a free circulation of cold air. It is the continual circulation of cold air through an electric refrigerator especially that preserves your food.

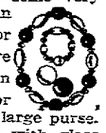
The Shop Window

By PEGGY POST

NOW, I ask you, what could be a nicer treat for Mother to have than a gay holiday from the kitchen on her own annual honored day? Why not, then take her to a happy dinner party next Sunday at CANDLE GLOW TEA ROOM, that makes room for the whole family in a terribly nice way. Your mother will love the place if she's never been in this attractive tea room on W. Lawrance-st and she'll appreciate this place best if she has. Never was an idea more brilliant, do I believe!

* * *

HIGHLIGHTS at HOBBY HOUSE bring forth some very tricky moire pullman bags that are ideal for traveling. These are in color, rubberized on the inside and look for all the world like a large purse. One darling is fitted with glass bottles. Then there are some very sweet cards here, as well as jewelry suggestions such as one particular antique chain necklace with a dainty cameo in the center of the pendant. Or you might send Mother some very real looking spring flowers, quite artificially made, but gorgeous for a lasting and artistic gift.



* * *

THERE'S not a woman living, be she a matronly parent or one of the dashing young mothers, who won't appreciate some devastating lingerie from HERNER'S HOSIERY SHOP! Mesh stockings is always a grand bet for the smart young woman, flimsy lingerie or a dainty nightie for those who love nice underthings, and perfectly grand glove silk undies for the woman who enjoys being practical and comfortable at the same time. You might consider one of the sweet handkerchiefs here as an idea for splendid gifts to send to the older women on your list whom, you remember each year.

* * *

PLAN a surprise for her with one of the delicious ice cream cakes that APPLETON PURE MILK CO. puts up. They are simply grand and serve about eight persons, all filled and covered with marvelous frosting and decoration. You'll probably find that Mother always uses this dairy's milk because she knows the value of having pasteurized milk, done under only the best scientific methods, and the courteous service of the dairy. Ask her what milk is best for the family from grandma down to baby brother, she'll say Appleton pure milk every time

Next week Sunday is the day . . . the one we always remember . . . Mother's very own day. List a moment to the many, many suggestions I've found in the way of gifts.

* * *

WHAT could be more appropriate than flowers such as the beauties MUELLER'S on College - ave have? A gorgeous bouquet of cut spring flowers with snapdragons, jonquils and a host of other lovely things . . . or a corsage of sweet peas . . . or better still if she enjoys a garden, one of the special blooming rose bushes here that can be transplanted in warmer weather. These roses, hydrangea plants are very inexpensive. Then too, you'll find this candy shop a valuable place for special Mothers' packages!

* * *

AMONG the interesting things at IDEAL PHOTO and GIFT SHOP are these things you'll love: a tricky Flemish copper and brass flower pot holder in a branching sort of idea that slips apart to make two units; a marvelous tea service that's unusual with its silvery fluted effect in tall tea pot, sugar and creamer, all with ebony handles straight out from the sides. The tea service fits quite elegantly into a copper tray edged in black. Of course you'll find cards here.

* * *

WHY NOT give her the little personal touch she loves to have from her very own children, dainty gifts that the TREASURE BOX GIFT SHOP holds galore. For one, a perfectly grand hand quilted and appliqued handbag, the most gorgeous and only ones I've seen in these parts. Then too, you'll find very darling hankies, the special cards Mother must have, or one of the new double chromium picture frames. Why, you'll even find a jig saw puzzle called "Mother" here, for those that enjoy the game!

* * *

HEADQUARTERS for matron's hats, probably as all mothers know, is VOGUE HAT SHOP on College-ave. Now this is a splendid gift to make your mother happy, you'll find exactly what she'll like here from darling wools for the youthful golf playing parent to the more sedate matron type who would adore one of the new crepes with a light facing. Then too, this is where you'll find some sweet framed mottoes, especially designed for mothers' day.

IN AN enchanting trip to PETTIBONE'S GIFT SHOP on third floor I found these clever ideas: the new rose china perfume and dresser bottles that are lovely . . . clever what not pieces and the what not themselves. Then as a real gift, something for your Mother's room, would be a set of boudoir lamps with a bed lamp to match in gay dotted swiss in colors to harmonize with the room. You'll find these bed lamps about the only ones in town because good looking ones are a scarce object!

Of course a quick trip through the first floor alone will reveal a host of things such as purses, swank gloves, her particular brand of cosmetics or bath powders, or linens hand made to delight her housewifely soul.

* * *

SINCE we're on the question of Mother's we might pause a moment to discuss the INFANTS' and BABY SHOP on third floor Zuelke building for a minute . . . it's better known as Miss Poquette's Baby Shop in this column. All mothers will find this adorable shop THE place to buy smart apparel for children as well as wee babies. The exciting part about the shop is that although everything here is smart, it's not an expensive shop at all!

* * *

AS FOR the practically minded Mother, GALPIN'S is the place to head for! Kitchen utensils for those that love kitchen puttering, garden tools for others who adore fussing in the morning sunshine, or an extra valuable household aid such as an electric hand cleaner to make the housework ever so much quicker. Outstanding in the kitchen line are the set of graduated glass bowls that are attractive, the pyrex dishes from up to date roasters right down to custard cups, or perhaps one of their special aluminum or enamel pans that your Mother may need. The gardener will dote on one of the digging forks or handy spader or another garden gadget for that matter!

* * *

NOW here's a sweet elegant suggestion, and that's a permanent wave as only ELLYN can do it! You'll find no better place in town to have careful as well as beautiful work done and this is a grand chance to do something terribly nice for the sweetest person in your family. Add to her loveliness by very sensibly giving her a wave for a gift. There's ever so many kinds that Ellyn gives, according to the wearer. All that's necessary is to make your mother's appointment soon a fit, so she'll have it soon.

NEW PROPOSAL OFFERED FOR COURT ENTRY

U. S. Considers Appropriation to Make Tribunal Facilities Available

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Copyright, 1932 by Post Pub. Co.

Washington—Participation by the United States government in the operations of the world court would be made possible by an unusual procedure if a plan now being considered by members of the house committee on foreign affairs were adopted.

Representative Linthicum of Maryland, Democrat, chairman of the committee, has been in conference with his colleagues in the last few days preparing a resolution which would appropriate about $5,000 a year as the American government's contribution to the expenses of the court of international justice. This would give the United States use of the facilities of the court and would not involve the ratification of the amendment to the world court protocol known as the "fifth reservation," which has been the subject of so much controversy and which as yet has not been acted upon by the senate.

The resolution is expected to be introduced in a few days and hearings will be held beginning next week. The advocates of the world court who believe that this simple process can bring America into the court are contending that the United States would save a good deal of money now spent on special tribunals.

It is claimed that much larger appropriations are needed whenever a special tribunal has to be appointed. Such a tribunal is about to be set up to settle a dispute with Sweden.

Fifth Reservation

If the foreign governments had accepted the fifth reservation adopted by the senate as they did the other four, the United States would now be a full fledged member of the court. The foes of the court have been active and have been hoping to kill the whole protocol next time it comes up. The fifth reservation is based on the hypothetical case in which the United States might claim a veto power in the event that advisory opinions are ever sought by the court from the league of nations. By avoiding the fifth reservation altogether, the American government would be in a position to use the facilities of the court in all other types of cases. But to insure participation, American payment of its share of the court's expenses is essential.

With a political campaign coming on, many senators have felt that the world court issue might be laid aside. The court protocol, however, has the support of President Hoover and Secretary Stimson and the advocates think a majority in the house for the present plan can be gotten rather easily, especially since the appropriation would in their judgment represent an economy.

It is not the amount of money spent, however, but the principle back of it which will cause debate if the measure reaches the floor of congress. It all depends on whether the Democratic leadership is willing to push the matter at this time. The plan of having the house register its opinion on the question of an appropriation is looked upon as one way to revive the discussion of the world court problem and focus attention on it by the senate.

New York—(CPA)—Senator Huey P. Long, the Louisiana "kingfish," takes his place with such competent hell-raisers as Tom Watson and Cole Blease. It is an indigenous American school, and Senator Long's boiling dialectic of Friday proved that it can be quite as inflamatory as the union square brand.

There never has been a certified "proletarian" in congress, but Senator Long, buttressed behind the bible and Shakespeare, could spot any of them a Karl Marx and a couple of Kropotkins and win both treble and bass events. It has seemed to this observer that there is a higher emotional discharge in these inside explosions, chambered in conventional deference to law and patriotism, than in the Roman candles of outside intellectualized radicalism—a brass cartridge, rather than a pasteboard powder container.

"Pot likker," purple pajamas and the like, which have publicized the one-time barefooted farm boy—nothing like Longfellow's—have diverted attention from the deep messianic streak in Senator Long. Such religious subluminations as Hauptmann so masterfully characterized have run deep under his polemics. Even though Joshua was only blowing a horn, he flattered the walls of Jericho—before the days of tariff walls, of course.

Rather chubby, with wavy, reddish blonde hair and a bit raucous when he gets mad, Senator Long crashed the senate like a ton of coal heaved into a boudoir by mistake. His natty blue suit, his red breast-pocket handkerchief, his swagger-little cane proclaim both intellectual and sartorial assurance which is going to say its say. He is in his late thirties.

By contrast, witness today's focus of dissenting opinion in France—Leon Blum, leader of the French socialists. In a secluded and beautiful old mansion in the Rue Montparnasse, buttressed behind volumes of philosophy and objects d'art, wearing a nut brown house jacket, he thoughtfully pens his opinions. But—compare what he writes to Huey Long's most strident outbreak in a Louisiana swamp: "Certainly it would be preferable to assume power by legal means, but all means are legitimate to give power to the working classes."

In his youth Leon Blum wrote charming and graceful dramatic criticism for L'Humanite, Le Matin and Comoedia. Later he published several impressive works on philosophy. He is unique among French politicians in being a total abstainer from liquor. Even with this handicap he repeatedly was elected to the chamber from the department of narbenne, for, in spite of his careful regard for all the amenities he is no diletante in politics. More than once he has refused a cabinet position, always with gentle, gallic irony. In a few years more he will look just about like Mark Twain in his later years.

Be all this as it may, General George Washington makes his stately entrance to New York for the "inauguration day" ceremonies in connection with the bicentennial celebration. Kenneth M. Murchison, who impersonates the immortal George, is startlingly like him, in stature and appearance. He is a distinguished New York architect characterized by his conferers at a testimonial dinner in 1929, as follows: "The fastest of all living draughtsmen; master of all musical instruments; distinguished director and composer; actor of parts; playwright and producer; author, columnist, financial wizard; executive; bon vivant, boulevardier, and man-about everything."

Just to round out his career, Mr. Murchison recently played the part of a dumb hotel detective in a Mack Sennett screen comedy. He is or has been the president of almost everything in the architectural line.

STUDENTS PRESENT PROGRAM OF MUSIC

Waupaca—Friday evening marked the culmination of a year of music activity in the elementary grades and in the Junior high school. As a demonstration of what has been accomplished the grades presented a program of music under the direction of Miss Gertrude Zahn. About 200 children took part in the program which consisted of a group of songs by the grade children and an operetta "Way Down South in Dixie" by the junior high school class. The program was given in the afternoon in the auditorium for students and in the evening for the public.

The Missionary society of the Holy Ghost Lutheran church held its regular monthly meeting at the church parlors Friday evening. The program consisted of group singing, a reading, "In the Land of the Santal," by Miss Edna Pommer; a violin solo, by Mrs. Henry Anderson; and a reading, "The Incompleted Work", by Mrs. O. E. Hanson. Hostesses were Misses Inga and Etta Rasmussen.

St. Marks guild will meet at the church rectory Tuesday afternoon. The hostesses will be Mrs. N. L. White and Mrs. George McLean.

The Waupaca-co music festival, sponsored by the county superintendent's office, will be held May 14. The festival will probably be held at Clintonville. Entries are in two classes, township entries of adults and children entries from the rural schools. To date 16 townships have sent in their entries and 340 children are represented in the rural schools.

Boise, Idaho—Bandmaster George Fleharty believes "depression blues" can be cured by music just as "war blues" were. To prove it he will lead his musicians through Boise's busiest streets every Saturday during marketing time.

Spokane, Wash. — "I want a couple of trees," wrote Walter Hansen, of Butte, Mont., to a shrubbery dealer here. He'll get just what he ordered: two spruce trees, 30 feet tall, and weighing three tons apiece.

Kendaia, N. Y.—If there ever is an "oldest fence-post contest" Charles J. Baldridge may win. The posts around his garden were put in 113 years ago by his grandfather. They're still in good condition, too.

Gdynia, Poland — The Polish tariff doesn't say anything about mummies, so an Egyptian mummy, destined for a Warsaw museum, was admitted as "dried fish." Customs officials figured that since the mummy was "dried flesh" the classification was suitable.

Los Angeles, Calif. — Mrs. Edna Dennis asked $19.50 of C. W. Woodward, owner of a dog which, she asserted, bit her pet, Duke. Mrs. Dennis wanted the sum to pay for a beauty operation upon the nose of her shepherd dog. Judge Robert W. Kenny asserted that since the state's "one-bite" dog law was considered to apply to a human only, Woodward would not have to pay.

ORCHESTRA AND BAND GET FIRST GROUP RATINGS

Both the Appleton high school band and symphony orchestra received first group ratings and the band placed third in the afternoon parade.

The Junior high school orchestra received a second group rating from the judges, Edward Meltzer, Chicago, Neil J. Kjos, Chicago, Educational Music bureau, and Otto J. Kraushaar, director of Waupun bands and formerly with Sousa's orchestra.

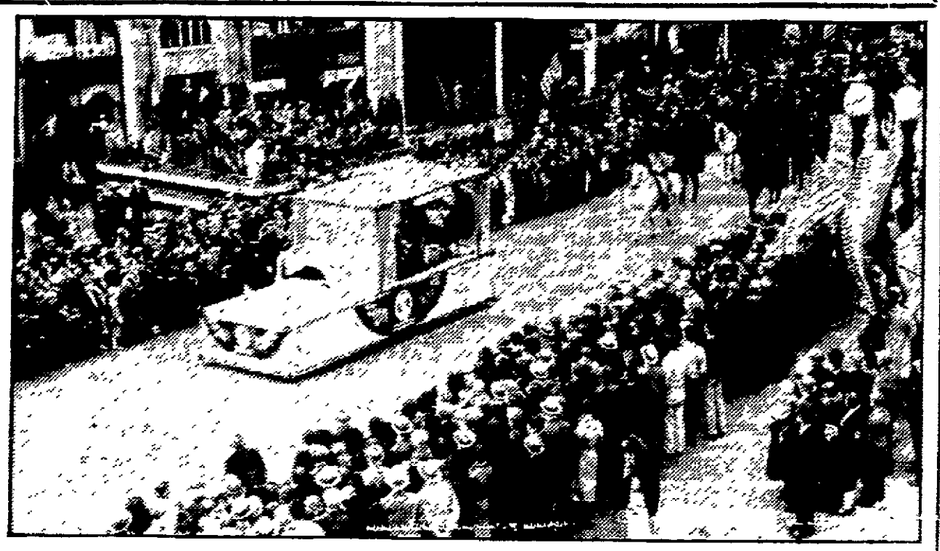
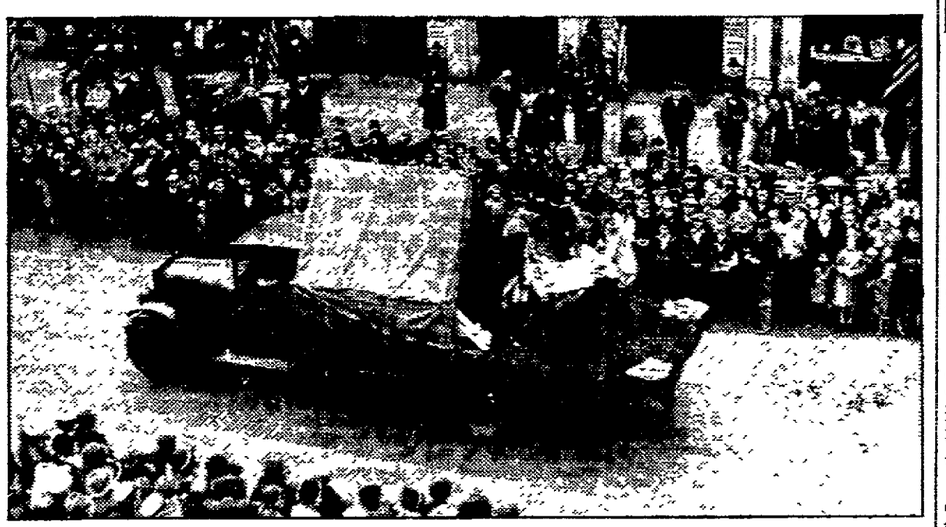
Scenes From Parade Which Opened Jubilee, Bicentennial Celebration





KIDNAPERS ROB MAN OF $6,000 AND TAKE ALL HIS CLOTHING

Buffalo, —(AP)— A man who said he was Pedro Salinas, 25, of San Antonio, Texas, was found nude, walking along the Lake Shore highway south of Buffalo today. Turned over to police, the man said he had been kidnaped in San Antonio and robbed of nearly $6,000.

He was taken to a hospital, where physicians said he was suffering from exposure. Police began a search for three men. Salinas told police he won $6,000 in a Mexican lottery three weeks ago. He gave part of the money to his wife and kept the rest. Three men who kidnaped him were armed he said, and kept a close guard over him as the car traveled north from San Antonia. Salinas supplied the funds for the trip, he said, under the threat of the bandit's pistol.

He said the kidnapers continually demanded that he wire his wife for more money. The final demand was made a few miles outside of Buffalo this morning, he said, and when he refused, the men stripped him of his clothing and threw him out of the car. He was discovered by a truck driver.

BANK STOCK BUYERS MUST PAY IN FULL

Also Must Assume Double Liability in Failure, Judge Rules

Milwaukee—(AP)—Circuit Judge J. J. Gregory today ruled that persons who bought stock in the suspended Franklin State bank and have not paid for it fully, must complete their payments and then assume double liability as bank stockholders.

The court dismissed an action instituted by 14 stockholders, who sought by suits against Thomas Herried, acting state banking commissioner, to avoid paying for stock for which they had subscribed. About 150 other subscribers, who were waiting for Judge Gregory's decision, are affected by the ruling. The 14 whose actions were dismissed agreed to pay $35,860 for stock and this sum, the court held, must be regarded an asset of the bank.

"Purchase of stock in a bank is more than an ordinary investment," Judge Gregory said. "Persons who subscribe must do so with a sense of the grave responsibility they assume. This responsibility is not to be assumed lightly or expediently to be put aside."

The courts must hold, Judge Gregory added, that the rights of depositors in a bank are paramount to the rights of those who bought bank stock as an investment.

LAUNDRY OWNER DIES

Escanaba, Mich.—(AP)—E. A. Grabowski, 57, who came to America a penniless immigrant from Germany and built up here the largest laundry and cleaning establishment in this region, died in a hospital here yesterday. Death was due to an affliction of the heart.

Fried Frog Legs, Tuesday night. Stark's Hotel.

Thirty thousand spectators lined College-ave Saturday afternoon to view the spectacular parade which opened Appleton's Diamond Jubilee celebration. Floats brought to mind early Appleton and some of the outstanding events in the life of George Washington, whose bi-centennial is being observed in connection with the seventy-fifth anniversary of the founding of the city. Twenty-two bands which participated in the band tournament held here Saturday, with their gleaming instruments and gay uniforms added just as much color as music to the parade.

The Fond du Lac Drum and Bugle corps, garbed in ivory and maroon costumes and high white fur shakoes, (upper left) provided stirring music as the parade started down the avenue. George Washington and his mounted staff, in tricorn hats, white wigs, and colonial capes, (upper right), struck the theme note of the parade. The role of George Washington was taken by Edward G. Pfeil, and his aides were Sidney Cotton, Hugh Kennedy, John Notebaart, George Schmidt, Leo Gardiner, Leo and Ewald Tilly, Albert Ogilvie and William Plank. The Junior Chamber of Commerce float, shown upper right also, represented Washington's first scabinet, and the Appleton Post-Crescent float, (upper right) depicted the scene before Yorktown, with Washington and his staff viewing plans.

Henry Meyer, 72, Clintonville, is in Community hospital at New London with a fractured right shoulder, injured hip and lacerated head, the result of an accident on Highway 26 between Marion and Clintonville at 7:30 Sunday evening. The wagon Mr. Meyer was driving toward Clintonville was struck from the rear by a car believed to have been driven by a Clintonville girl. The aged man was thrown from the wagon. The wagon was badly damaged.

FORMER ORPHANAGE RESIDENT HEIRESS IN LARGE ESTATE

Chicago—(AP)—Life for Mrs. Marie Meehl, once an inmate of a California orphanage, took on a happier outlook today after she had been told she is a grandniece of President Paul von Hindenburg of Germany and the heiress of one-half of a $500,000 estate left by an argonaut of the California gold rush of 1849.

A letter from Seawell August Auerswald of Redwood City, Calif., of whom she had not heard for 22 years, brought the news to Mrs. Meehl, who is the wife of Fred E. Meehl, manager of a linen supply company. It was read to her over the telephone by Al Little, investigator of the county clerk's office to whom it had been forwarded by the state health department at Springfield. The letter was the fourteenth Auerswald had written to find his sister.

The letter said that Mrs. Meehl, formerly Clarisa Bena Auerswald, was placed in an orphanage in Los Angeles 22 years ago when she was 7 years old. Accompanying the missive was a newspaper clipping which told of the estate left to the brother and sister by their maternal grandmother, whose husband was a forty-niner. It also said that Auerswald's mother met and married in 1900 a young German newspaperman, who was a nephew of von Hindenburg and a member of the Prussian secret police.

Clarisa was born in Germany and Seawell was born two years later in California. She was placed in the orphanage following her parents' death. Seawell was reared by the Salvation army of Los Angeles. All the information he had when he started his search was that his sister had left the orphanage in 1922 and had come to Chicago. Efforts to trace Mrs. Meehl through a former husband were futile, but publication of her brother's letter brought Little in touch with her.

"We are going to California at once to see my brother," she said. "I don't know anything about being a grandniece of President von Hindenburg, or the granddaughter of a forty-niner, but we can use the money."

CALL PUBLIC HEARING ON ZONING ORDINANCE

OFFICERS RECOVER STOLEN AUTOMOBILE

A Buick sedan owned by A. G. Oosterhaus, 1718 N. Drew-st, stolen between 7:30 and 10:45 Saturday evening from a parking place on Park-ave, was recovered a short time later by Officers Earl Thomas and Alfred Gosha. The car, which was found at the corner of Jefferson and Calumet-sts, where it had been abandoned was not damaged and was returned to the owner.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Viel and Mr. and Mrs. August Haferbecker spent Sunday at Antigo as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McGreer.

ROMANOFF APPEAL FROM DEPORTATION ORDER IS DENIED

New York—(AP)—The department of labor has denied the appeal of Michael Romanoff, known on Ellis island as Harry F. Gerguson, from the deportation order of the Ellis Board of Inquiry.

Notice of the department's action was received today by Edward Corsi, commissioner of immigration, in a letter from William N. Doak, secretary of labor.

Gerguson, suave and well dressed, arrived a week ago today on the liner Ile de France, on which he mingled for four days with the first class passengers before being discovered as a stowaway.

At the hearing on Ellis Island he protested he was a native of New York but was unable to prove it.

In denying Gerguson's appeal, the department of labor ordered he be returned on a ship of the French line. He probably will be sent to Havre at an early date.

Five building permits were issued Saturday by John N. Welland, building inspector. They were granted to Nick Dresang, 1102 W. Lawrence-st, two car steel garage, cost $150; Ervin Bogan, 1122 W. PATENT USE OF COPPER-IRON FOR ANEMIA TREATMENT

Revenue to Be Used by Foundation in Scientific Research

Madison —(AP)— The copper-iron treatment for anemia, although relatively unknown to the layman, is bringing in a substantial revenue to the Wisconsin Alumni Research foundation.

Patents covering this and other discoveries made by scientists at the University of Wisconsin are controlled by the foundation to provide money for scientific research. The patent covering the Steenbock process of introducing Vitamin D into foods is the best known of those held by the foundation.

The copper-iron treatment has proven to be highly beneficial in certain types of anemia and working agreements have been executed with commercial organizations for its use, the foundation reported in its second annual report.

Prof. E. C. Hart, of the department of agricultural chemistry was largely responsible for the discovery that copper, when added to iron, aided in curbing or preventing some types of anemia. The medical world has long known that a lowering of the hemoglobin level of the blood brought about anemia. Prof. Hart's experiments showed that the application of copper and iron raised the hemoglobin level.

Prof. Hart and his associates found that milk, practically indispensible in the diet of children, was deficient n iron and copper although containing most of the minerals needed by the body. The experiments revealed that the introduction of iron and copper salts into milk resulted in the control of the hemoglobin content.

Use of the Hart discovery has been made in hospitals in Montreal, London, Baltimore and elsewhere. Research workers in Queen's Hospital for Children, in Mothers' hospital and at certain homes for unmarried mothers and their babies, all in London, found that the use of iron alone did not increase the hemoglobin level, but that the addition of copper in milk diminished the morbidity rate and increased infants' weight.

Early investigations at the Queen's hospital and at a clinic in Bethnal Green established the widespread existence of anemia in artificially fed infants. They indicated that anemia was also probably as common in breast-fed infants as in those fed from bottles, and that infants suffering from this anemia probably suffered from a lowered resistance to bacterial infection.

Prof. Hart's experiments were made on rats, rabbits, pigs and other animals. The large number of deaths which often occur during the early growing period in pigs was attributed largely to a lack of copper and iron in their diet. The experimenters found that by painting an iron sulphate and copper sulphate solution upon the teats of a sow once a day, the young pigs were able to get a sufficient amount of iron and copper by suckling to ward off anemia.

STOCK TRADERS SMALL FACTOR IN NEW SLUMP

Outright Owners, Frightened by Force or Drop, Are Selling

BY GEORGE T. HUGHES

Copyright, 1932, by Cons. Press

Wall Street, New York—The professional element in Wall Street last week was less a factor in making lower prices for stocks than those who own the stocks outright.

The selling has been what the street calls good. It has come from the safe deposit boxes of individuals who have been frightened not only by the force of the decline itself but by the events in Washington. To this supply has been added another important one from institutions. It will be interesting to analyze the forthcoming figures of bank loans for the week and observe the extent to which stocks in collateral loans have been dumped into the market as the margin of the loan has faded away.

The in-and-out trader in a market of this kind does not have much of an opportunity to make profits, for the trend is too much in one direction. There was a promising outlook for him early in the week, when prices showed a stiffening tendency and on two days had a fair average advance.

Likes Active Stocks

He likes to deal in the active stocks. These have been the ones that have been most conspicuously weak. Among them were Steel common, General Motors common, American Telephone, Atchison, Auburn Auto, Allied Chemical, Consolidated Gas, and New York Central. Persistent weakness in issues of such great popularity has led to a withdrawal of the usual professional operations in them, although it is quite possible that there has been some short selling.

The astonishing feature of the decline is that it does not produce any of the type of rumors that were so current in the street last year and even in 1930. The brokerage house failure last week was the first in a long time but did not involve a prominent firm. The reason for this absence of distress among brokers is that they are in a strong position generally, having reduced their borrowings to a minimum so that among seven of the largest borrowers in 1929 their loans have been cut down from approximately $1,250,000,000 to less than $50,000,000.

Last Decline Longest

At various times in the last year it has been the conviction of the Street that the end of liquidation had been reached. This was thought to have been conclusively proved three months ago when the market touched its "triple bottom." Since that time prices have had one of the longest and most severe declines, from the standpoint of percentages, in the entire course of the bear market. The chart readers are now unable to determine the trend of stocks, as they are dealing with forces that have never in their experience played such a part in determining the market values of securities.

The market is without leadership. No one has the nerve to step in and buy stocks or to protect their specialties when they see so much long stock overhanging the market. There have been rumors of large blocks of stocks sold for distressed operators, one being in circulation last week to explain the decline in General Motors common to a new low price. The General belief is that the selling comes from many directions and that it reflects the uncertainty over earnings and dividends and the relays in Washington in adopting a satisfactory tax and budget program.

A number of market students have felt that the low point in the market would be reached in May. They did not, however, look for April to be a month of such extreme decline. This favors their prediction, for again the margin between market values and asset values has widened. Those who have not bought stocks on any of the previous declines now have a basis for an initial investment such as has not been provided at any time during this century.

BOILEAU TALKS FOR PAYMENT OF SOLDIER BONUS

Claims It Would Increase Amount of Money in Circulation

BY RUBY A. BLACK

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau)

Washington — Increasing the amount of money in circulation through the issuance of currency to pay veteran's bonus certificates in full is the best thing that could happen to the country to lift it out of the depression, Representative Gerald Boileau of Wausau said in a radio speech.

"I would not favor the present payment of this amount out of the Federal Treasury from funds raised through additional taxation," said Boileau.

"Taxes are already too high and the Treasury could not stand this additional load. However, I am firmly convinced that the best thing that could now happen to this would be for the government to issue, through the Federal Reserve Board, a sufficient amount of additional currency to pay these certificates in full, which currency should be legal tender for the payment of all debts, public and private, and such currency be non-interest bearing Treasury or Federal Reserve Bank notes.

"The government could issue this currency without going off the gold standard and could pay this debt without levying taxes to do it. We have enough gold to expand the national currency to this extent, without endangering our credit."

"It would mean that currency would immediately be put in circulation in every nook and corner of the entire United States at the rate of $18 per capita.

"In doing so, the great debtor class of this country would be enabled to pay their debts with a dollar which would be approximately the same as the dollar they received when they incurred their indebtedness.

"It would mean that the farmers would get a price for their produce which would permit them to pay their taxes and interest on their mortgages and continue to operate their farms and buy the products of their factories."

The only persons who might possibly suffer a loss as a result of the proposed currency expansion would be those in the creditor class who have hoarded their cash, Boileau argued. Even they would not suffer any injustice as their money would be worth as much as it was when they earned or saved the dollar, though not twice as much as is now the case.

VETO OF PENSION BILL AFFECTS SEVEN WISCONSIN PEOPLE

Measure Voted Down by President Hoover Included 367 Names

BY RUBY A. BLACK

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau)

Washington—Seven Wisconsin men and women will not get pensions or increases in pension because President Hoover vetoed the omnibus bill which included not only their benefits but also "too many unworthy cases."

The Wisconsin people and the benefits they would have received had the bill been approved, are:

Rosa Helms of Appleton, an increase in pension from $12 to $20 per month.

Leo J. Nagele of National Military Home, Milwaukee, an original pension at $6 per month.

Charles W. Bentley of National Military Home, Milwaukee, an original pension of $8 per month.

Carl H. Ziebell, Oshkosh, an original pension of $10 a month.

The bill contained 367 cases of pensions or increases in pensions for soldiers and sailors of the regular army and navy and their dependents other than Civil war.

In vetoing the measure, President Hoover stated that, without reflecting upon many worthy cases involved, he could not sign a bill containing so many cases "not worthy of public bounty." He cited pensions for deserters, dishonorably discharged soldiers and sailors, chronic alcoholic addicts, soldiers or sailors who served but little time, and similar beneficiaries as not properly eligible to pension.

Three Softball Leagues Will Open Season Tuesday Evening

NATIONALS TO AGAIN BATTLE AT PIERCE PARK

Americans at Roosevelt School and Fraternals at Wilson School

APPLETON'S three major softball leagues will swing into action tomorrow evening on three grounds—weather permitting.

The National league which will complete its schedule at a meeting tonight will again play at Pierce park with the first game between the Pure Milks and the Appleton Wire Works. Games will be played every Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evening at the grounds.

In the Fraternal league, this year a six team loop, the Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Moose will battle in the opener. The loop will play Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday nights. Other teams in the league this season are the Foresters, Knights of Columbus, Eagles and DeMolay. Two teams which competed last year but which dropped out are Holy Name society, 1931 champions, and the Zion Lutheran church team.

The other league swinging into action tomorrow evening is the American league which plays on the Roosevelt school diamond. The Power company and Telephone company teams will clash with Bogan and Lewellyn working for the former and Hollenbeck and Hobbins for the Phones. The league will show on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights.

Started in Appleton several years ago softball has grown to the point where it has one of the largest followings of any sport in the city and more active contestants.

CLAIM KINGFISH TO MEET DEMPSEY AGAIN

Chicago —(AP)— King Levinsky heard rumblings from Reno, Nev., today that he would be offered $50,000 for a ten round battle with Jack Dempsey there on July 4.

The offer will come from a big gambler, said "Leaping Lena" Levy, manager of her big brother fighter, the Kingfish.

"And, oh, he is such a big gambler," gusted Leaping Lena. "I can't tell you his name now, but he certainly is a big gambler."

The Kingfish leaves tomorrow for Louisville to witness the Kentucky Derby on Saturday and thence for Baltimore, Md., to undergo a tonsil operation.

FOUR HURLERS WORK AS KIMBERLY NINE WALLOP MERCHANTS

Fahrenkrug, Pocan, Zeneski and Ritten Allow Appleton Four Hits

KIMBERLY—Manager Carl Lemmers' Papermakers, Kimberly's team in the Fox River Valley league showed power in the latter innings of a game with the Appleton Merchants Sunday here and copped the fracas by a 9 to 0 count.

Kimberly used four mound artists during the afternoon. Fahrenkrug started the game and stayed for the first two innings. He allowed only one hit and was relieved by Clarence Pocan who never was trouble and fanned four Merchant stick men. Zeneski relieved Pocan at the start of the seventh inning and pitched nice ball for two innings allowing only one hit. "Lefty" Ritten took his turn on the mound in the last frame and looked mighty good.

Rod Ashman caught all the pitchers in style and showed plenty of pep behind the plate. Skell and DuPont divided the work at first base. Hackbarth held down the second sack. LaMay the youngest who is trying out at short for the Papermakers fielded all his trys nicely but was nervous throwing the ball and Gossens held down third base. Butch Thein and Arnie Hillman, outfielders, were the big guns at the plate the veteran Thein collected three singles. Hillman hit a double and a single in five official times to bat. Vander Velden another Kimberly lad had it easy in right field and didn't handle a play all afternoon.

The Merchants showed Buss on the mound for the first five innings and kept the Papermakers down until the fifth when they treated his offerings roughly and ran in five runs. Werely then took the mound but showed little control and Kimberly ran three more tallies in the seventh. He allowed one more run in the eighth inning.

Next Sunday the Papermakers will open the league schedule with the Green Sons of Green Bay as opposition. Manager Lemmers plans to hold as many practice sessions this week as possible.

M. U.'s Negro Sprinter May Be '32 Sensation

BY CHARLES DUNKLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO—(AP)—Ralph Metcalfe, 21 year old Negro lad from Chicago, promises to be the sprinting sensation of the 1932 Olympic games.

That was a prediction today of John Nicholson, Notre Dame track coach, after watching Metcalfe, the flying ebony of the cinder path, dig his powerful legs into the turf at the Drake relays Saturday to tie the world's record of :09.5 in winning the 100 yard dash with two yards to spare.

"Metcalfe is really good," Nicholson observed. "I look for him to beat all of them. Eddie Tolan, Frank Wyckoff and George Simpson have had their day but Metcalfe is just coming. his chances appear excellent to become a sensation in the Olympics at Los Angeles next July."

He is just 21, 5 feet 11 inches tall, and weighs 150 pounds. He has a marvelous pair of legs with lithe calves and powerful thighs that drive him over the ground like a scared rabbit.

Metcalfe learned his foot racing while attending Tilden high in Chicago. He is a national interscholastic record holder for the 100 and 220 yard dashes. Since his prep days he has improved remarkably, having conquered Tolan, another Negro sprinter, who holds the accepted world's record of :09.5 seconds and also has taken the measure of Simpson, the former Ohio State flier.

Metcalfe is a modest youth and shares the comradeship of his competitors. They lose no time in grasping his hand in congratulating him [illegible] weeks. He is working his [illegible] terrific burst of speed, but he seems to have overcome that and gets away now like a shot.

O'Rourke In Lineup; Brews Win From Kerns

BY WILLIAM WEEKES
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO—(AP)—Frank O'Rourke, pilot of Milwaukee's Brewers, has found it necessary to get into his lineup, giving the American Association the distinction of having three managers on the active player list.

Emmet McCann, Indianapolis's manager, has played most of the season at first base, and Toledo's field marshal, Bib Falk, has worked in the Mud Hen outfield on occasions. Yesterday, O'Rourke took over third base for the Brewers and his double and two singles contributed heavily to a 4 to 3 victory over Louisville.

Gives Even Break

The victory gave Milwaukee an even break for the week end, Indianapolis having won the closing game of their series, 9 to 5, Saturday. Ash Hillin, recruit righthander was wobbly at the start but settled down and had no trouble after the fifth. Archie McKain, pitched the whole game for the Colonels, but had two bad innings, the first and the eighth.

Joe Mowry, Minneapolis' rookie outfielder, let loose with a home run, double and single yesterday to help bat the Millers to a 10 to 2 triumph over Toledo. Hardly second to Mowry was Joe Hauser, who connected for a pair of home runs and a single off Belve Bean and Ralph Winegarner. Winegarner was in the game long enough to drive out a home run for the Mud Hens. The Millers also broke even over the week end, losing to Columbus Saturday, 16 to 6.

B'ues Take Lead

Kansas City moved back into the league leadership, with Joe Dawson holding Indianapolis to four hits to give the Blues a 3 to 1 victory. Doubles by Sigafoos and Fitzgerald gave the Indians their run, while the Blues bunched hits in the first and eighth rounds off Johnny Cooney, to score the winning tallies. The Blues also defeated Louisville, 7 to 4, Saturday.

Columbus gave St. Paul another beating, with Ken Ash and Fred Blake giving only three hits between them. Nick Cullop contributed a homer and a double to the Red Bird attack which batted out a 7 to 3 decision, and Swanson, Ash and Le Bourveau helped out with doubles. Ash gave only two hits in 7 2-3 innings, but lost control and Blake finished.

BEHR WHIFFS 15 AND COLLEGIANS BEAT STILLERS

Crowe Also Toils and Strikes Out Four; Rowe Puzzles Locals

A COUPLE mid season pitching exhibitions by Art "Lefty" Behr, Appleton, and Johnny Rowe of Green Bay Stillers featured a game here Sunday afternoon which the Fox River Valley team won 6 and 1.

Behr toiled for seven innings for the Collegians and found his arm in such perfect condition he turned in 15 strikeouts and allowed five hits, all of them singles and only two in one inning. Several time when Behr eased up on some of his tosses and let the invaders take a pick at the ball. "Dats" Crowe toiled the last two innings and showed in excellent form too, whiffing four batters and allowing no hits.

Johny Rowe of the Stillers turned on the magic for four innings and allowed three hits, two of them in the fourth frame. He whiffed six batters and allowed three bases on balls. Appleton scored one run off his delivery.

Batting Weak

Aside from the hurling exhibitions the game was just a ball game. Appleton showed itself comparatively weak with the lumber for only one of the nine hits tallied went for an extra base. Boss Leo Murphy was the big gun in the attack with two wallops in three times to the rubber. Sonny Tornow, the the league's Babe Ruth, was way off form getting no hits in four tries and being called out on strikes twice. The other two times he lofted, one fly enabling a mate to scamper home from third base.

Wee Bobby Verstegen who played second base was the scoring genius for the Collegians with two runs. He walked in the third frame and went to second on a catcher's error, to third on a passed ball that clipped the catcher's thumb and galloped home on Schultz' fly to center.

After Rowe had retired at the end of the fourth inning, Villiesse a short stop took the mound and was greeted with three straight singles, a double steal and a long fly to left and before the firing died down Appleton had scored four runs. The last run came in the eighth frame after Weisgerber got a life on an error.

Green Bay's only run came in the sixth inning when E. Collard was safe on Schultz' error of a ground ball, went to second unmolested and galloped home on a single to left.

Meet Not Decided Until Last Event's Points Are Tabulated

NEENAH—Appleton high school field and track squad won the triangular meet here Saturday afternoon by getting 43 points to 38 secured by Oshkosh and 36 by Neenah. FIELDS, M'LARNIN BOUT IS OFF-AGAIN

Chicago —(AP)— The on-again, off-again negotiations for a title bout between Jackie Fields, world welterweight champion, and Jimmy McLarnin of Vancouver, at the Chicago Stadium, are off again.

Pop Foster, McLarnin's manager, finally agreed to terms after holding out against a stipulation by Jack Kearns and Ray Alvis, Fields' managers, that a return bout be guaranteed if McLarnin won.

Then the Fields managements refused an offer of 40 per cent of the net receipts, causing Matchmaker Nate Lewis to lose interest in the discussion.

CARDINALS END LOSING STREAK BY BEATING CUBS

Senators Gain American League Lead With Win Over New York Yanks

BY HERBERT W. BARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

AN altered lineup and a typica pitching performance by Wi Bill Hallahan has given th world champion St. Louis Cardinal their first victory in four games an snapped the Chicago Cubs' winnin streak at seven in a row.

Gabby Street, slightly annoyed b an outfit that had succeeded in wi ning only five games out of its firs 15, benched first baseman Jim Bo tomley yesterday, shifted Jimm Collins to that post and inserted Ra Blades into the outfield.

This lineup stopped the Cubs with out trouble, 7 to 1, but the credi perhaps rests chiefly on Hallahan shoulder. The "Wild One" passe ten men but allowed only three sin gles. Four double plays stopped the Cubs every time Hallahan's ge erosity put them in a threatenin position. George Watkins led a 1 hit attack on Guy Bush, hitting home run, double and single.

Braves In First Place

The only other National leagu struggle of the day, the Cincinna Reds came from behind to dow Pittsburgh, 7-5 after the Pirates ha gained a 5-0 lead.

The Washington Senators gain the American league lead by beatin the New York Yankees, 4-2 as Lloy Brown outpitched Charley Ruffin Brown witnessed the finish of th game from the clubhouse, Marber going in with one out in the nint after the Yankees had put two me on base. Triples by Manush and My er accounted for three Washingto runs in the first two innings.

Wes Ferrell won his fifth gam in a row as Cleveland pounced ou an 11-1 victory over the Chicag White Sox. It was fairly close unt the eighth when Cleveland score seven runs off Poser and McKain.

The much-traveled right hande Irving Hadley, made his first sta for the St. Louis Browns, struck ou 11 men and beat the Detroit Tiger 4-2

ECONOMY BILL VOTE ROUSES PUBLIC ANGER

Citizens at Large Understand That Politics Beat Sales Tax

BY CHARLES F. SPEARE

Copyright, 1932, by Cons. Press

Wall Street, New York—With the spectacle in Washington of a majority of the representatives of a tax-burdened people unwilling to make any sacrifice themselves or to permit one for their office-holding constituency, public indignation over the action of congress on the economy bill is rising to a boiling point.

It is well understood by the public that the defeat of the sales tax was a political move to prevent the imposition of this equitable tax on a larger portion of the American people than could be reached in any other way. The refusal of the leaders in congress to submit to any cut in salaries of government employes, and even to approve the recommended furlough plan of the administration, is viewed generally as another sacrifice of government credit for political prestige.

In order to arouse the public and to show how unnecessarily a portion of the proposed additional taxes would be if a sincere effort were made to bring about the economical operation of government, a number of large corporations have issued statements to their stockholders urging them to impress on their representatives in congress the unfairness of the tax proposals and to call to their attention the enormous increases in government expenditures in the last few years.

Issues Circular

The Standard Oil Co. of California in a circular issued to its thousands of shareholders points out that government expenditures in the past five years have increased from $1,964,000,000 to $3,195,100,000, or 63 per cent. It indicates where increases have occurred and shows the percentage of enlarged expenditure in each of the major departments and commissions of the government. The circular states:

"Congress is now at work on a plan which threatens to provide huge additional taxes, to be paid from the shrunken income of industries and individuals already handicapped. The higher the taxes upon industry, the higher the cost of producing commodities. Higher taxes to the public decrease sales, hamper industry, add to unemployment. The higher the taxes upon the individuals, the less will be their buying power. The country needs more buying power and lower costs to manufacturers. The nation needs a balanced budget and the budget can best be balanced by lowering government expenditures rather than by adding to the tax bill."

The official organ of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey shows that, in Washington alone, a civil army of 500,000 employes is being maintained, with 500,000 additional in associated agencies. It states:

Point to Expansion

"Departments have expanded until they have lost all sense of cohesion, and even the low order of efficiency formerly obtaining has given way to duplication and confusion. Typical of the situation in the nation's capital today is the fact that various phases of export shipping are handled in 15 different bureaus, and matters of health in six bureaus reporting to four different departments. A single investigation by the interstate commerce commission has now spread over 550,000 pages of record, 12,000 pages of briefs and 46 weeks of hearings without yet producing a final report."

It is further remarked that the situation in Washington is duplicated in every state and in almost every municipality and that its continuance "means the crushing of the citizen for whose benefit government is supposed to exist." While it is accepted that the nation must be prepared to expect great increases in taxes to balance its budget and preserve its credit, at the same time it is maintained that "lawmakers have an obligation to give equally serious consideration to the matter of reducing expenditures so that extraordinary tax increases may be outlawed at a given date not too far in the future!"

TOONERVILLE FOLKS

Mother Jones, 71, Leads Strike Of Ohio Miners

Hollister, Ohio —(AP)— With poverty and misery stalking through the Hocking - Perry county coal fields, where 10,000 coal diggers have been on strike since Feb. 1, a 71-year-old woman is bearing the burden of leadership.

She is Mrs. Mollie Robinson Crain, known throughout the Hocking valley as "the second Mother Jones" and as "commander-in-chief of the miners."

Mollie Crain has been active in union councils for 40 years, because, she says, "the men needed a woman to keep them level."

The wife of a miner and having lived among miners all her life, she knows their problems and understands their sorrows.

Hundreds of homes where want is apparent have been brightened by her visits. There is hardly a miner's home in the entire valley where she is not personally known.

When she hears of a case of destitution and no other help is in sight, she will hasten to the home, with a basketof food and medicines gathered from her own meager store and pocketbook.

But when a strike is on she becomes the militant leader. In many recent "marches" upon non-union mines she has enlisted the women and children and headed their wavering line alongside the men.

No union meeting is complete unless she is one of the orators. When he rises to speak a thousand men will listen intently. And when she finishes they cheer her to the echo.

"It's just as well to starve not working as starve working," she tells them, urging them to stand by the union against wage cuts.

But her orations are not of the radical type. She addresses the miners as sons, brothers, fathers, husbands. She herself is the mother of several grown children.

SENATE CONFIRMS 8 APPOINTMENTS

BY RUBY A. BLACK

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau)

Washington—The senate has confirmed the appointment of eight Wisconsin postmasters, all of them reappointed to their present jobs, as follows:

Elizabeth Croake, postmaster at Albany;

Orestes K. Hawley, at Baldwin;

Caster H. Kuehl, at Brillion;

Earl H. Herbert, at Coleman;

Frank M. LeCount, Hartford;

Frederic D. Keithley, Land o' Lakes;

Norma E. McNutt, Oxford.

No action was taken on nomination of Charles L. Calkins for the Rhinelander postmastership, although his nomination was submitted at the same time that the other names were sent to the senate.

It also confirmed the appointment of Edward H. Moore as postmaster at Lakemills, succeeding E. W. Brown who resigned.

USE MOST AIR MAIL

Washington—Figures compiled by postal authorities show that Pacific Coast business firms and individuals are the largest per capita users of air mail in the United States. During 1931 more than 406,000 pounds of air mail—an increase of 116,000 pounds over 1930—were shipped between Seattle, Wash., San Diego, Cal., and intermediate points.

QUESTION POWER TO ENTER MILK DISPUTE

Milwaukee—(AP)—Members of the state department of agriculture and markets, at a conference here Friday with milk producers, said they were not certain they had the authority to intervene in the Milwaukee "milk war" for the purpose of setting uniform prices.

Producers said that several independents were buying milk at prices slightly higher than that paid by the Milwaukee Milk Producers Co-operative association, thereby complicating the price situation. Milk is selling for $2.10 per hundredweight.

FIRST ENGLISH PAPER APPEARS IN MOSCOW

Moscow—(AP)—Moscow's first English language daily newspaper appeared on the streets Saturday. It is the Moscow Daily News, representing a merger of the Moscow News and the Workers' News, both of which were printed in English.

Michael Borodin is the editor-in-chief. He said the daily is designed for English-speaking workers in Russia and for circulation abroad. The combined circulation of the two merged papers, he said, was 16,000 in the United States.

FARMERS MUST ORGANIZE, SAYS UNION LEADER

They're Only People Who Sell at Loss, W. E. Daniels Declares

By W. F. Winsey.

Seymour — Two hundred farmers and city people attended a meeting in the Opera house here Friday evening conducted by W. E. Daniels, vice president and state organizer of the Wisconsin Dairy Union, and H. P. Malloy, a fieldman of the union and cheesemaker of New Holstein. Pat Wallace, a local cheesemaker, assisted the organizers as a speaker.

As an argument to induce farmers to organize, Mr. Daniels said that 30,000 Wisconsin farms were foreclosed the past year at the rate of 30 a day or 3 an hour. He charged the losses to the low prices that owners got for their products.

Farmers are the only people who sell at a loss, he said, and manufacturers, dealers and merchants are never foolish enough to do that.

"Prosperity begins with farmers," he said. "If they get fair prices for their products, they and everybody are prosperous. If farmers got the cost of production the past year, $165,000,000 more money would have been put in circulation. I see no hope of breaking the depression except through the return of properity to the farmer. As the farmer prospers so do all other people.

"Farmers have the right to strike if they fail in every other means to get the cost of production.

"It is too bad that county agents have taught farmers how to raise larger hogs and neglected to teach them how to get the cost of production for their pork.

"Do any of you farmers know what it costs to produce a hundred ponds of milk that you sell for 70 cents? It cost just $1.37.

Organizing Locals

According to Mr. Malloy, the Dairy Union is organizing locals. Representatives of these locals will form county organizations, and representatives of the county organizations, a state organization. A resolution passed by a local must meet with the approval of the county and state organization before it becomes effective. Temporary state officers have been elected. These officers will be superceded by permanent officers to be elected at a state convention at Madison in June.

To get higher prices for their dairy products, Mr. Malloy advised the farmers to organize into a price-fixing agency, to produce quality products, raise the consumer price, and to advertise along the lines that cigarette manufacturers and orange growers are advertising. Low consumer prices on cheese prevents sales, according to Mr. Malloy.

"Unless farmers organize now, the school teacher of the future will be explaining to their pupils how Wisconsin, once the home of 165,000 of the most prosperous dairy farmers in the United States became the hot bed of chain farming in the union of states," he said. "The biggest and most effective gun that can be used to prevent this possible change from individual to chain farming in Wisconsin is organization, and the most deadly bullets to be used in this gun may be cast from the confidence, determination and perseverance of farmers to win their battles waged for the marketing of their products. If such guns and such bullets are effective for manufacturers, bankers and business mergers they will also be effective for farmers.

SHEEP LAWNMOWERS

Berlin—German airport managers are thankful for sheep. Near most every airport you will find a flock of sheep. These are released on the flying field when there are no planes in the air. They keep the grass closely clipped and do away with the expense of having an automatic mower do the work.

Of the students in the government flying schools in Russia, 20 per cent are women.

The age of stalagmites can be told by their "rings," like those of a tree, according to Carl B. Livingston, scientist and lecturer.

CHICAGO IS TRYING TO OBTAIN RECORD CONVENTION CROWDS

Immediate Trade and World Fair Advertising Goal of Commerce Groups

Chicago —(AP)— In its usual superlative way, Chicago will try to attract to the national political conventions next June the largest crowd ever to surround such gatherings.

This ambitious city overrode all opposition and landed both conventions. It plans to provide both parties the largest convention hall they have ever had, the most modern equipment, the biggest pipe organ, probably the largest flag in the world. And now it is hoping to draw the general public in unprecedented numbers.

Mr. Average Citizen, who hasn't any official business here but who likes to be around when big things are happening, is the man that's being angled for now. The bait is the glamour of two nominating conventions, a preview of the world's fair and reduced railroad rates.

Public participation is the unknown "X" in the whole equasion. The city wanted advertising, particularly with its world's fair only a year distant, but the merchants and civic bodies that put up $350,000 for the two conventions naturally hoped also to bring trade to the city. Just how many persons besides those officially connected with the conventions can be drawn to the city is the question.

Lower Rail Rates

The railroads, arguing that the delegates would come anyway, based their reduced rates on the assumption that thousands of outsiders, the curious, the political minded and the crowd lovers, would like to come too. It is the first time such rates have been offered to national conventions.

Round trip rates of a fare and a half will be available all over the United States except in the far west where the usual summer tourists rates are even lower. They are all "open" rates which require no credentials and are good in all cars.

For the Republican convention, tickets will be sold June 11, 12, 13 and for the morning trains of the day the convention starts—June 14. Tickets for the Democratic convention, which starts June 27, will be sold in advance on the same corresponding days. The return limit will be 30 days with stop over privileges.

Within two weeks every railroad station in the country will be provided with large posters—50,000 in all—advertising both the conventions and the opportunity to see the advance construction of the world's fair. In addition, each delegate and alternate is being invited to the world's fair preview with a pass good for both this summer's exhibit and for the entire exposition next summer.

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

by Ely Culbertson

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

THE HANDS BID AROUND THE WORLD

The world's most gigantic Bridge game has recently been completed, more than 30,000 players in 33 countries participating in the World Bridge Olympic, held under the direction of the National Bridge Association, a corporation not for profit, organized for the promotion of Bridge. Sixteen hands, prepared in advance by Mrs. Culbertson, Messrs. Waldemar von Zedtwitz, Theodore A. Lightner and myself, were played simultaneously throughout the world.

In view of the widespread interest in these hands, I have decided to analyze the questions of bidding and play which arose in their play in this series of articles.

Hand No. 1 presented in the bidding a choice as to the correct final declaration, the choice being between playing the hand at a game declaration in spades or at a game declaration in no-trump. A study of the cards, of course, reveals that game cannot be made against the best defense at notrump, and it requires delicate handling and the utilization of the entire trick-taking power of the North and South hands to fulfill the contract of four spades.

The principles of play exemplified are: First, the cutting of the line of communication between West, who has the Opening lead, and his partner in the East; second, the automatic elimination of one suit—diamonds—from both the Dummy and closed hands; third, the lead of an unnecessarily high card in a side suit, in order, later, to create an additional entry in the Dummy hand; fourth the elimination of clubs from the West hand; and, fifth, the creation of an end-play situation in order to fulfill the contract.

Par on this hand for North and South was four spades, bid and made.

The hand and bidding were:

South—Dealer.
East-West vulnerable.

	♠ Q 9 7 3 ♡ J 10 7 ◇ 7 3 ♣ A 5 4 3
♠ K 8 2 ♡ K Q 8 ◇ Q J 10 8 2 ♣ 7 6	N W E S	♠ 6 4 ♡ 6 4 3 2 ◇ K 6 5 4 ♣ Q 10 9
	♠ A J 10 5 ♡ A 9 5 ◇ A 9 ♣ K J 8 2

The Bidding:

South	West	North	East
1♠(1)	Pass	2♠	Pass
3NT(2)	Pass	4♠(3)	Pass
Pass	Pass

1—The Approach principle. When a hand contains a biddable suit, even a four-card minor, the suit and not the notrump should be preferred as an Opening bid.

2—With a partner strong enough to respond at all, South should insist upon playing the hand at a game contract. The bid of three notrump offers the Responding Hand a choice as to the proper game declaration.

3—North's hand would lose 1 trick in value if played at notrump. There is also the added danger of two weak unstopped suits.

In the play, West was directed to lead the diamond Queen which is unquestionably the best lead on the hand. If East should attempt to obtain the lead by playing the King on this trick, then South must play the Ace, but if East plays a small diamond, then South, in order to fulfill his contract against the best defense, must refuse to win the first round of diamonds and take the second. The hand is then developed by leading the 8 of clubs from the closed hand and winning with the Ace in Dummy. The eight must be led in preference to the deuce, so that one of Dummy's small clubs will provide an additional entry, if needed, in the Dummy. The 9 of spades is next led from the Dummy, and when the finesse loses, West's best play is to return a trump, as the lead of any other suit might cost the defending players a trick.

South then draws the adverse trumps, taking the last round in Dummy, in order to finesse the clubs. When the club finesse wins, the Dummy hand is put in on the fourth club round by the lead of the deuce, in order to lead a heart from Dummy toward the closed hand. West, of course, wins this trick, but is helpless. His hand contains nothing but hearts and diamonds. To lead a diamond would permit South to discard a heart in one hand and ruff in the other; to lead a heart would give South the remaining heart tricks.

TODAY'S POINTER

In determining whether a hand should be played at a suit or notrump, the primary question is whether a greater number of tricks are available at the suit bid.

TOMORROW'S HAND

The bidding and play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow.

South—Dealer.
East-West vulnerable.

	♠ A 8 4 ♡ — ◇ A K Q J 10 8 2 ♣ Q J 8
♠ — ♡ A K Q J 10 9 8 7 ◇ 6 5 4 3 2 ♣ —	N W E S	♠ Q 10 9 7 6 3 ♡ — ◇ 4 3 ♣ 10 9 6 4 2
	♠ K J 5 2 ♡ — ◇ 9 7 6 5 ♣ A K 7 5 3

Study the hand, decide how you would bid and play it and then compare the results you obtain with those shown in tomorrow's article.

COMMUNISM GIVES WAY TO CAPITALISM

Society in Iowa Becomes Stock Corporation Under State's Laws

Homestead, Iowa—(AP)—A 90-year-old venture in Communism gave way today to the capitalistic system as the Amana society became a stock corporation operating under Iowa laws.

For almost a century in the United States, and previously in Germany, members of the society have shared alike from the gains of their cooperative work. All workers, whether farming, tending looms in the woolen mills, or directing the society, received the same share of food, clothing, other necessities and such luxuries as sale of surplus goods provided.

Families lived in individual homes but cooking was done in community kitchens and the meals were served at common centers in the four villages which form the community. Being a deeply religious organization, motion pictures were not shown in the towns, young ladies did not use cosmetics, and until a few years ago motor vehicles were a rarity.

Beginning today, however, and during a one-year transitional period all members of the society will receive 10 cents an hour for work done, each family will have a home and garden rent free, and goods will be sold at the colony stores at cost plus handling charges.

At the end of the one-year period remuneration will be established on the basis of the kind of work done and personal responsibility involved. In addition shares of stock in the new corporation will be issued to members of the society.

Assignments of superintendents and managers for farm work, store, manufacturing, and professional activities have been made and work of the community went on as usual today.

A separate corporation is to be formed for the church and provision has been made for the erection of high school buildings.

MOTHER, SON TO RAISE 100 GEESE

BY W. F. WINSEY

Greenville — Mrs. H. A. Stolzman and her son, John will probably raise 100 geese this summer. They have already started toward that goal by gathering 50 eggs and setting the eggs under clucks. Their only uncertainty is the grit and determination of the clucks to "stick it out" with eggs of such unusual size and weight.

The mother and son expect their four laying geese to produce a total of 100 eggs and enough more to hatch 100 goslings, beyond the misshaps. Last year they raised, dressed and marketed as a side line 75 high quality geese.

Their principal equipment for rearing geese is a good pasture and a small pond. After the first few weeks goslings need very little attention with the exception of feeding.

They dispose of most of their geese and feathers in the fall at home with their neighbors as their best customers. If the neighbors do not take the entire flock, they market the remainder in the cities. Neighbors also get eggs from the Stoltzman's for hatching purposes.

South Colton, N. Y. — An Indian arrow grew up in a tree believed by woodsmen to be 172 years old. The arrow was found in the trunk 28 feet above the ground. It was imbedded there more than a century ago.

East London, South Africa — Monkeys and babboons resent the march of progress. Farmers are growing bananas and pineapples where the animals once made their homes. So the simians devastate the crops and to emphasize their displeasure, stone passing motorists.

GARAGE, TRUCK, CAR DESTROYED BY FIRE

Building in Rear of Otto Sommers Residence Razed by Flames

(Special to Post-Crescent)

New London — Fire, supposedly caused by faulty ignition in one of the two motors housed in a garage, was discovered at 2:15 Sunday morning in the garage at the rear of the Otto Sommers residence on the Hortonville road. The loss was approximately $1,000, partly covered with insurance. The entire garage was destroyed, as was a sedan and a truck.

Mr. Sommers stated that the family had returned home at about 10 o'clock and that he was aroused by a motorist who rapped on his window. By that time the fire had gained such headway that nothing could be done to save either the building or the cars. The direction of the wind probably saved the residence from flames.

COLORED NINE TURNED BACK BY KAUKAUNA, 16-4

Lamers and Players Garner 14 Hits Off of Two Cloverleaf Pitchers

Kaukauna — Marty Lamers and his Kaukauna baseball team found the Cloverleaf colored stars of Milwaukee easy prey here Sunday afternoon, chalking up an easy 16 to 4 victory. The Kaws bats swung lustily to garner 14 hits from two of the Cloverleaf pitchers. Lamers led the way with three safe bingles, and all of the Kaukauna regulars found the offerings of the colored hurlers much to their liking.

Manger Lamers used his entire squad in the fracas. Several of the recruits showed a lot of class. Lonsdorf, former Kohler baseball star, worked on the initial sack for Kaukauna, replacing Collins, who has gone to Cedar Rapids, Ia., to enter Mississippi valley league competition.

The Kaws proceeded to pile up an easy lead in the second frame with three hits and seven runs. Lamers was hit by the pitcher to start the inning, and Van Wyk was given a base on balls. Lonsdorf popped a short fly to advance the men on bases. Schlude, also a newcomer, was hit by the pitcher, loading the bags. Fortin walked, sending Lamers in with the first score of the game. Vils singled, scoring Van Wyk and Schlude. Phillips walked, and Mulry singled to center, scoring Fortin. Wenzel golfed one high in midfield and Adkins, Cloverleaf shortstop fumbled the ball, and Phillips tallied.

Pitcher to Showers

Lamers cracked a hard liner to left field to score Mulry, and the Cloverleafs sent in a new pitcher. Jackson struck out two men to retire the side.

Minor, Cloverleaf catcher, scored the first run in the fourth inning, after getting a base on balls. He tallied after Bryant and Johnson had hit safely. The Cloverleafs added two runs in the fifth on one hit, an error, and a base on balls, with Adkins and Jackson scoring. Another run was added in the seventh inning.

The Kaws scored three runs each in the fourth and sixth innings, and one run each in the seventh and eighth innings. In the fourth runs were scored when Wenzel doubled, Lamers and Van Wyk singled, and Lonsdorf cracked a double to center field. Three runs were added in the sixth on singles by Phillips, Mulry, an error of Wenzel's fly, and a single by Lamers. Vils accounted for the run in the seventh inning when he singled to right, stole second, and scored on Johnson's error of Wenzel's line drive. Lonsdorf tallied the last run of the game in the eighth inning when he was left on base by an error by Jackson, advancing on two bases on balls, and scoring on Fortin's single.

Next Sunday the Kaukauna aggregation will open their schedule in the Fox River Valley league when they journey to Shawano. Fortin or Fulsinger will pitch the opening game. On May 15, the Kaws will play their first home game against Kimberly.

DEMONSTRATE TREE PLANTING ON FARMS

Experiments Conducted by Gus Sell, Outagamie-co Agent

BY W. F. WINSEY

Oneida—Two tree planting demonstrations of the "wind break" variety were conducted by G. A. Sell, county agent, and F. B. Trenk, a specialist of the College of Agriculture, Friday. The first of these demonstrations was held on the farm of Adrian Van Roy, town of Vandenbrink, where approximately 800 pine seedlings were planted, and the second also in the afternoon at three o'clock at the Immaculate Conception school, Oneida where about an equal number of seedlings were planted.

Proceeding the planting at the school in Oneida, Mr. Trenk, talked to the pupils of the fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades on the purposes of planting trees in unproductive lands, in door yards, and in blocks to serve as wind breaks for the protection of farm buildings. He also instructed the boys and girls on the better methods of planting pine seedlings.

After the forty boys and girls were given two seedlings each which they planted under the supervision of Mr. Sell, Mr. Trenk, and local assistants of considerable experience. As soon as the young people became experienced, the furrows in the plot were divided, each pupil was assigned to a division, and planting became general under supervision.

Other tree planting demonstrations of the series planned by the county agent will be held Saturday as follows: 10 o'clock Lawrence Kaufman's farm, town of Grand Chute; 11 o'clock, Fred Wickesberg farm, Greenville; 1:30 o'clock, Robert Gosse's farm, Seymour; and 3:30 o'clock, Arnold Burmeister's farm, town of Cicero.

SELL EXPERIMENTS WITH NURSE CROPS

Applies Various Mixtures of Fertilizer in Making Tests

BY W. F. WINSEY

G. A. Sell, county agent, recently surveyed a number of plots, in a field on the farm of the Outagamie county asylum, in which oats were being sown as a nurse crop for clovers and timothy.

On some of the plots, the county agent applied 0-20-0 commercial fertilizer, on others 0-20-20, and on still other plots to be used as checks, no fertilizer at all.

He weighed the fertilizer and distributed it with a modern machine, horse-drawn, at the rate of 200 pounds per acre. The purpose of the county agent is to test the value of commercial fertilizers in the raising of grains, hay and pasture.

Later in the season, Mr. Sell will, probably, invite neighboring farmers to inspect the fertilizer plots and to conclude whether it pays to apply commercial fertilizers to oat and grass fields to increase the yields. The meeting will probably take the form of a demonstration of the service and profits that come from application of fertilizers.

Last year, the county agent conducted a large number of similar experiments in the raising of grain, hay, pasture and cash crops, and practically covered the county with these experiments, and with the public demonstrations that followed.

Being accurate in management detail and records the, county agent in his fertilizer experiments last year was of inestimable value and service to the farmers of Outagamie-co whetner the individuals were raising regular or cash crops.

Mr. Sell prepared the farmers for appreciating the value of his fertilizer plots throughout the county and for taking intelligent advantage of the results by testing soils the past two years at meetings in each township of the county. In the announcement of these soil testing meetings, Mr. Sell invited each farmer of a township to bring samples of his soils to the meetings to have the samples tested for fertilizer content.

Based on soil testing as they are, Mr. Sell's fertilizer plots, scattered about Outagamie-co are invaluable to the growers of regular and cash crops of the county.

The writer drew the above conclusions from attending scores of soil meetings and as many fertilizer demonstrations, conducted by County Agent G. A. Sell, the past two years, and the reports of increased yields of crops made by farmers who were influenced by the evidence of increased yields in fertilized plots produced by the use of the right kind of fertilizers.

Hundreds of Outagamie farmers will attend the county agent's fertilizer demonstrations this summer and fall to find out how to increase the yield of crops without suffering the loss caused by the purchase of the kind of fertilizer present in the soil in sufficient quantity and neglecting to make up for a deficiency of some other kind of fertilizer.

FARMERS WELCOME SHOWER FOR CROPS

BY W. F. WINSEY

Seymour— The Friday night rain will be worth thousands of dollars to farmers in this section of the state. It is just what was sorely needed to make their lifted alfalfa and clovers take root and grow into profitable stands. It will also be of great value to farmers in forcing the quick germination of seed grain and in fitting pastures for use. It will cause all outdoor plants to shoot upward and to take on fresh, spring colors. Before the rain began to fall, the surface of uncultivated fields was badly cracked as if by a long continued draught and all plant growth was exceedingly slow.

PHIL BIXBY PLANTS FIRST EARLY KRAUT

Uses Two Pounds of Copenhagen Cabbage Seed in Process

BY W. F. WINSEY

Phil Bixby, president of the Appleton Cabbage Growers association planted his first bed of early cabbage, Thursday, using two pounds of Copenhagen seed. If all that seed germinates, he will get 90,000 plants from each pound of seed. To plant an acre of cabbage, 7,200 plants are required.

In preparing his bed for the raising of thrifty plants, Mr. Bixby applied 4-8-6 commercial fertilizer at the rate of 100 pounds for each pound of seed. As a bait to attract maggot flies away from his cabbage plants, he will use radishes in accordance with his practice of former years. He drilled rows of radish seed about his cabbage bed, and each seventh row in the bed. The leaves of the radishes will catch most of the flies and hold them until they unload their eggs, according to Mr. Bixby.

Last year approximately 3,000 acres of cabbage were raised in Outagamie-co, and the acreage this year will be about the same as that of last year. Mr. Bixby's will be about three fourths of last years acreage.

On account of a threatened increase of $2.00 per ton on cabbage freight rates from Appleton to Chicago and western markets, the Appleton Cabbage Growers' Association and the local cabbage dealers, employed G. C. Campbell of the Oshkosh Chamber of Commerce, as their representative and sent him to Kansas City where the Interstate Commerce Commission is in session for the consideration of proposed increases in freight rates. In the opinion of officers of the local cabbage growers association and dealers, an increase in freight rates on shipments of cabbage at the present time would be a severe blow to the cabbage industry of the Fox river valley and for that reason it should be warded off through united action of growers and dealers.

ABSENCE OF PESTS KEEPS "RING" IDLE

Sprayers Expect to Start Work Soon in Various Orchards

BY W. F. WINSEY

The Badger Spray Ring, with headquarters west of Appleton, has thus far done no spraying this spring. The reason for the inactivity of the ring this spring is that owing to good spraying in the past three years, no pests have showed up in the orchards of the ring thus far this season. Regular spraying will soon start and be kept up in the orchards of the members of the ring.

Farmers who did no spraying last year got no apples, and farmers who make a practice of spraying got a shorter crop than usual but a paying crop.

As an example of the increase in yield of apples and the improvement in quality, through pruning and spraying, Phil Bixby marketed 800 bushels of apples at his door, two years ago. His customers were city people, and farmers of the county who had neglected to prune and spray the trees of their own orchards.

For the reason that "An apple a day keeps the doctor away," every farmer should prune and spray his apple trees and start raising apples for his children and other members of his family even if he has no interest in raising a surplus of first class fruit for the market.

The better and the cheaper way to spray fruit trees is to have the job done by a spray ring in each township, the members of which are some or all of the farmers of a township.

You Can't Marry

by Julia Cleft-Addams

SYNOPSIS: Georgie Revell is in love with Eddie Townsend, but can't decide to accept him because her employer, Matching, has an unbreakable rule of firing any woman working for him who marries. She hates to tell him, she says to her cousin Jenny whom she is supporting. Jenny appreciates Georgie's kindness, but is indignant because Georgie treats her like a child. Georgie gives her a silver dress on her twenty-fourth birthday, but continues to dominate her. The two girls are going out to dinner with Ryder Vale and a friend of his, and Georgie sends Jenny on ahead to find the strange man. Jenny dislikes Vale's friends, and has no hope of approving this one. She is met, however, by a man who instantly holds her attention. His intentness leaves her confused. She is not the Miss Revell, she explains. "She's just behind me," she says. "I'm only Jenny."

Chapter 2

HIDDEN LAUGHTER

JENNY felt color creeping into her face and added, goaded by shyness:

"My name is Jenny Revell."

"Jenny Revell."

He repeated it softly. He was perfectly grave, not even in his voice was there any tremor of amusement. But when he moved to meet Georgie and Ryder Vale, now within a few paces of them, Jenny was left with the echo of laughter all about her—and with the sound of her own name spoken softly, as though it were a song. . .

"—Always prefer a party when the host is unpunctual," Georgie was announcing. "Gives the guests at least a few minutes to enjoy themselves" She laughed at the tall man, who laughed back at her.

"Garth Aveney," said Vale, introducing him. And the four of them moved into the restaurant.

Whenever Jenny went out with Georgie and one or more of her "stalwarts," as she called them, she felt like a little girl included in a grown-up outing. Tonight she was not actually at the tail of the procession, for Ryder was at her shoulder, but she had the sensation of lagging slowly behind it. Over her head Vale was teasing Georgie about her lateness and she, unheeding, was listening to something Garth Aveney was telling her Jenny sat rather bleakly down at the glittering little table that had Ryder's name on it While he became occupied with the waiter, she looked at the man on her left.

He was tall and slim and he sat in the easy pose of tall, slim men, with a hand on his hip and his long legs carelessly disposed. He was not tanned, but her had on out-of-door look and there was a tinge of blue in his very smooth black hair. Jenny thought his eyes were blue, too, until he glanced her way and then she thought they were gray. She could see that Georgie was rather liking the look of him.

And he, of course was liking the look of Georgie; that rich, generous splendor, that suggestion of the peony in flower. Wonderful Georgie, of course he wanted to monopolize her. Many men did—it was natural . . .

"I beg your pardon," stammered Jenny.

"I asked you, Miss Cinderella," grinned Ryder, "whether your fairy godmother will let you stay later than twelve tonight?"

"You must ask Georgie," she said shyly. "She gave me this frock."

"People don't have a birthday every day of their lives," cried Georgie, breaking off her vivacious chatter. "Twenty four today is that infant, Ryder, and don't dare to treat her like a little girl."

Jenny's cheeks became warmer. She wished to heaven Georgie hadn't thought it necessary to say that! Some men at the next table, who had already given her quick, appraising stares, stared again and harder. Garth Aveney's long body swayed around on his chair and he met her unhappy gaze.

"Many happy returns," he said negligently. Again she had the sense of his hidden laughter. The lights, dimmed to soft rose, shone upon his eyes and she saw that they were not gray or blue, but hazel. They held hers, searched them; let them go. She sat back with a pulse pounding in her throat and watched him turn back to Georgie. But Georgie was gaily haranguing Ryder. And, as though he snatched an opportunity the stranger leaned again to Jenny.

"D'you like this kind of birthday party?" he asked.

"No," said Jenny.

It had been jolted out of her and when he nodded and once more deserted her for Georgie she sat aghast, desperately afraid that Ryder Vale had heard her. But he had not. He looked, as always, self-satisfied; the prosperous rather strident City man.

Either because of the silver dress or because it suited him to let his other two guests entertain each other, he devoted himself to Jenny. This, he insisted, was her party. Presently, when he had cajoled the orchestra into playing one of her favorites, she found herself dancing with him.

"Looks like a stretcher-case," he remarked, jerking his head towards Garth Aveney's dark head, still near the reddish gleam of Georgie's. "Time that Townsend chap turned up again, what?"

"I don't think Georgie is specially interested in Eddie Townsend" said Jenny mechanically. Georgie had told her long ago to stave off enquiries with this kind of thing. An acknowledged engagement to Eddie was the last thing Georgie wanted

"Seems not," admitted Ryder. He puckered up his rather fat face into the grin that always made Jenny think he was going to cry: "Odd chap, Aveney—evidently seen Georgie before somewhere, though he says not. Asked me two or three times to arrange a party like this so that he could meet her."

Jenny, telling herself that she was not interested, let her eyes wander to the table where the others sat. There was a big mirror behind it and for a second she believed that while he talked and listened to Georgie, his eyes were upon the reflected dancers, upon one dancing silver figure moving in the mirror ...She frowned the fancy out of her mind. At that distance it could only be her fancy. She said casually:

"Is he a great friend of yours?"

"Who, Aveney? No. Know nothing about him, really, though I've a notion I ought to. Met him—forget where. He seemed keen to have a drink with me, but that's explained now." Again his head and his grin indicated the table in recess

"Yes," said Jenny firmly. She thought it time to be firm with herself. That softly spoken "Jenny Revell"—she closed her ears and tried to forget it.

"Don't you want to dance with me?" Garth asks Jenny tomorrow. Her heart and her pride battle to answer.

IT'S EASY TO LIVE BY YOUR PEN, IF YOUR FOLKS ANSWER WHEN YOU WRITE HOME!

I O EVERYONE, HEIGH-O

Houston, Texas—One always pictures a man that is constantly in debt as a worried, harassed-looking individual. J. J. Settegast, 87, disagrees with this. "I've found that the most enjoyable thing about living," he says, "is being in debt." These words were said by Settegast, Houston pioneer, at a birthday barbecue given him recently by his nine children.

The peaceful return to constitutional government has created more confidence in business circles of Argentina.

Kidnaping Suspect Is Former Kaukauna Man

Albian Wilpole, one of six men being held in Norfolk, Va., on charges of conspiracy to violate the federal dry laws and on suspicion that they might be involved in the kidnaping of the Lindbergh baby, is a former Kaukauna man. Wilpole was born and raised in the town of Buchanan, moved to Kaukauna and left there a short time later for Kenosha. On his arrest he gave his address as Kenosha.

Some of the bullets, taken from Wilpole's hotel room on his arrest, were purchased from the Groth Bicycle shop in Appleton, according to Wilpole's story to police in Norfolk.

The bullets, five boxes of them, were taken from the hotel room of one of the men. Two boxes of the bullets were dum dummed. The police also found a 10-shot Mauser automatic pistol which the man said he purchased in Charleston, S. C Some of the bullets, he said, were bought at Groth's store in Appleton. Richard Groth, proprietor of the store, said he carries a small supply of these shells and he said they are an unusual type of bullet. He could not remember having sold the shells.

"Mar. 1—Lindy."

Police attached significance to the entry because Mar. 1 was the night the Lindbergh baby was stolen from his crib.

Followed Up Coast

Police said that an undercover federal detective followed the men up the coast from Florida with the idea that they might be members of the Purple gang of Detroit, rum runners and perhaps the gang of kidnapers.

Robert V. Stark, 34, Pittsburgh, Eddie R. Anderson, 24, Palm Beach, Fla., and Henry R. Singleton, 37, Little River, S. C. were arrested on the street Friday. A fourth man escaped. He was traced to an apartment, which he sub-let two months ago, but he had gone. He had been using a car with Georgia license plates.

Not Known in Kenosha

Detective Leon Nowitzky and R. A. Matthews saw the car Saturday afternoon and arrested William McGuire of Detroit and Albian Wilpole of Kenosha Wis.

Both were registered at the Monticello hotel, headquarters for press conferences and other activities in connection with the Norfolk angle of the Lindbergh case.

At 9 p. m. Nowitzky and two assistants raided another room at the Monticello and arrested Carl S. Stevenson, Jacksonville, Fla. All six were held for investigation.

Kenosha police on duty Saturday night could not confirm Albain Wilpole as a Kenosha resident, but said that a Wilpole, known to be connected with bootlegging, had operated in the city some time ago.

Bullets From Appleton

The first five men called for lawyers. Police turned them over to federal authorities so a liquor charge could be placed against them.

In Wilpole's room police found a 10-shot Mauser automatic pistol with detachable rifle stock and five boxes of bullets. Two boxes were dum dummed. Wilpole said he bought the gun in Charleston, S. C.

Inspector T. L. Petty, chief of detectives, said that the men were arrested not primarily on liquor charges but because of "general suspicion."

"We had been watching them. Petty said. "They did not look like they had any business in Norfolk. We have the Lindbergh case in mind and we are going to investigate that angle thoroughly."

Papers concerning the liquor traffic were seized by the police.

Meanwhile the oft hoped for climax, screened behind a curtain of secrecy, and with the sea again serving as the probable scene, was believed to be near Saturday night in the efforts of three Norfolk men to restore the Linderbhg baby to its parents.

Sails on Third Cruise

The feeling of hopefulness reached another high peak with the absence of John Hughes Curtis, presumably seeking another contact with the kidnapers, supposed to be off the Virginia coast.

Curtis was reported to have engaged upon his new mission aboard the yacht Marcon shortly after returning from a trip by plane. The boat sailed on its third mysterious cruise after it had been held in readiness for several days at the naval base.

Rear Admiral Guy H. Burrage, retired, who recently conferred with Col. Lindbergh by long distance telephone, refused Saturday to say whether he had again talked with the famous flier. Both Admiral Burrage and the Very Rev. H. Dobson Peacock, the third intermediary, continued silent concerning their work.

GRAIN VALUES AVERAGE HIGH BUT REACT LATE

Helped by 4,645,000 Bushel Decrease in U. S. Visible Supply

BY JOHN P. BOUGHAN
Associated Press Market Editor

Chicago —(AP)— Helped by a 4,645,000 bushel decrease of the United States wheat visible supply, grain values averaged higher today, but reacted in the late dealings.

Curtailment of domestic visible supply figures on wheat brought the total down to 177,681,000 bushels, against 195,691,000 at this time last year. Monthly private crop reports to be issued tomorrow were an element of uncertainty.

Wheat closed nervous, at the same as Saturday's finish to 1 cent lower, May 54¼-⅝, July old 56¾-57; corn unchanged to ⅝ down, May 28⅜-½; July 32½-⅝; 5-5½ decline to ¼ advance, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 2 cents.

Although deliveries of wheat on May contracts reached a big total both here and at Liverpool, the grain was reported to have gone into strong hands, with no unusual market pressure resulting. Largely as a result, prices rallied sharply after fractional declines, bulls putting some emphasis on reports that North Dakota spring wheat planting would be cut 10 per cent below the intended acreage. Notice was taken of advices from more than 1,000 stations indicating that the average price paid to United States farmers last week for wheat was 43.2 cents a bushel, compared with 40.5 a month ago.

Contributing to renewed strength of wheat were late bulges in price at Liverpool, together with word that prospective takings by import countries the next few months were on a large scale, increasingly so from North America. It was asserted in this connection that neither Argentina or Australia were urgent sellers. Overnight export business both from Canada and the United States, however, was apparently at a minimum. Corn and oats displayed comparative firmness, notwithstanding big receipts of corn here, 342 cars.

Provisions reflected hog market upturns.

HOPE PENETRATES THE HOG MARKET

Presence of Order Buyers Gives Trade 10 Cent Higher Start

Chicago—(AP)—A ray of hope penetrated the hog trade today as the market exhibited an improved tone although offerings were somewhat smaller than a week ago and 50 per cent under the corresponding day last year. Animated by the presence of order buyers, holders of choice lights and small weight butcher asked higher prices and the trade had a strong to 10c higher start as compared with Friday's average. Packers' 14,000 direct hogs kept the big operators out of the open market during the early forenoon though they were in a position to use more home. Early top was $3.90.

On a trade of miniature dimensions Saturday's average cost of drove was held down to $3.35, the figure also being influenced by the extremely plain quality of offerings on the final session last week. The week's average price of $3.55 and average cost for April placed at $3.85, were lowest since June 1899.

A slow start in the cattle market was due to the presence of an ample supply of bovine stock though it was considerably lighter than a year ago. Offerings of quality were sought as kosher buyers turned to the trade. Steady prices were obtainable for desirable steers, but plainer kinds and light she stock met with different interest on the part of buyers. About 2,000 calves were on hand and no marked price changes were noted.

Spring lambs made up a good portion of the supply in the sheep sheds Packers receipted for 9,300 head or nearly half of the fresh lamb run, on direct consignment. Actual buying was delayed.

BANK CREDIT BIG QUESTION FOR BUSINESS

Impression Prevails in Washington That Banks Are Hoarding Credit

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Copyright, 1932, by Post Pub. Co.

Washington—Attempts by the federal reserve board to bring about an expansion of credit through open market purchases of government securities have now focussed attention on what the banks are going to do with their excess reserves.

On Capitol Hill and to a large extent in executive quarters the impression is given that the banks are hoarding credit and are not passing on to the business man the benefits of the new credit policy. The other point of view just as strongly argued by bankers is that credit goes to the deserving and that inasmuch as the federal government itself is not advocating loans to pay deficits after July 1, so also banks cannot make capital loans for which there is such a widespread demand but must confine themselves only to loans for business turnover in relatively short periods.

Undoubtedly much of the feeling that the banks are slow to follow the hint of expanded credit is due to the lack of confidence on the part of the bankers as yet that fundamental conditions have been corrected or are on their way to correction.

With foreign exchange demoralized, foreign trade curtailed, cities and states borrowing money for relief, eight million unemployed, uncertainty over what congress will do about balancing the budget with new taxes, doubt as to which industries and business will be affected by the taxes, the coming of a presidental and congressional campaign, failure of the Geneva conference and perplexity over the forthcoming Lausanne conference, there are plenty of reasons why the banker as the custodian of other people's money is not passing favorably on credit applications for loans that cannot be liquidated in relatively quick time.

Intermediate Credit

What America is in crying need of today and what the federal reserve system cannot supply is an intermediate credit system for business, something whereby three to five year loans can be made in much the same fashion as the Reconstruction Finance corporation now is authorized to lend money to financial institutions and railroads.

Before the banks can set up such an intermediate system they must have a guarantee of liquidity from some source and some relief from the bank examiner's rigid instructions to require curtailments on short time loans or refuse extensions. The opposite of this policy is continued deflation and further shrinkage in values.

The federal reserve board has been trying to increase the available supply of credit. The purpose is of course to help business and commerce, but incidentally it helps the treasury float its short time issues so as to care for current deficits. The extent of the treasury borrowings is not generally realized because it is being accomplished in small installments, but the banks which have sold their government securities as the federal reserve began to buy them keep their money on hand only a short time when a new issue of treasury certificates tempts them to use their excess reserves in that direction.

The hope is of course that idle money will soon seek other investment besides government certificates and that the bond market—the long term money bank—will soon feel the effects of a surplus of money. This undoubtedly is the goal of the Reconstruction Finance corporation in its effort to bolster up railroad credit.

The banking structure as a whole has been fortified by the Glass-Steagall law, but it takes time for the bankers to feel as confident as they would like to be about extending credits. The next 30 days may see an easing of credit if congress is able to clear deck and remove much of the uncertainty derived from the pending bills relating to government finances and new taxes.

SAYS TAX BODY MADE TOOL OF LA FOLLETTE

Marshfield—(AP)—John Chapple, Ashland editor and candidate for the United States senate, Friday night charged in an address here that the Wisconsin Tax commission is being used "as a political tool by the La Follette group in an effort to discredit me because the La Follette leaders do not dare to face the real issues in this campaign."

"Announcement that my 1928 income tax return would be investigated by the tax commission followed almost immediately my announcement of my candidacy," he said.

"Why did not the tax commission think my 1928 return was of consequence in 1929 or 1930 or 1931?"

"When all the facts are known, the citizens of Wisconsin will have some additional information on the way the La Follette racket operates in an effort to get anyone who opposes the racket."

FURRIERS' STRIFE IS BLAMED FOR BOMBING

Chicago—(AP)—The plant of the Superior Fur Dressing company on N. Kostner-ave was bombed Saturday and police theorized that warfare between New York and Chicago furriers might have been the motive. The damage was estimated by police at $15,000. Windows in nearby factory plants were shattered.

Michael and Joseph Shapiro, owners of the plant, told police that much of their business came from New York and that they received warnings from eastern furriers some time ago to refrain from reaching into New York territory.

LEAGUE ADOPTS PLAN FOR PEACE IN ORIENT

Japs Fail to Vote on Resolution Providing for Withdrawal of Troops

Geneva—The league of nations assembly Saturday adopted a resolution embodying a plan for settlement of the Sino-Japanese controversy at Shanghai.

The Japanese delegates refrained from voting on the resolution, which provides that evacuation of Japanese troops shall be completed in the near future and that the league mixed commission is authorized to report any neglect by either China or Japan to observe the terms of the armistice agreement.

Previous to the vote on the resolution Ambassador W. W. Yen, Chinese spokesman, had announced that China accepted it.

Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson sat in the spectators' gallery with the American delegation during the assembly meeting.

M. Magaoka, Japanese spokesman, expressed Japan's dissatisfaction with the compromise proposal of Sir Miles W. Lampson, British minister to China, which was included in the resolution, but he abstained from voting because of Japan's opposition to the invocation of Artucle XV, of the league covenant.

He announced that Japan would heartily cooperate to bring the peace parleys at Shanghai to a successful conclusion.

SON OF TURFMAN DIES AFTER AUTO SMASHUP

Louisville, Ky.—(AP)—Jerome B. Respess, Jr., 18, son of one of Kentucky's most prominent turfmen, was burned to death Saturday in his automobile after crashing into a telephone pole.

Young Respess, a junior at the University of Kentucky, was enroute to Louisville to spend the weekend with his father. Mr. Respress has a string of 19 horses including Our Fancy, a Kentucky derby candidate at Churchill Downs for the spring race meet opening today.

It would better business generally if the world had a new universal language for science, business and politics, Dr. Alfred Flinn, director of the Engineering Foundation, New York, believes.

9 MANUFACTURERS GET LICENSES TO APPLY VITAMIN D

Use Ultar-violet Rays to Introduce Requisite Elements

Madison—(AP)—Manufacturers of nine foods are now licensed by the Wisconsin Alumni Research foundation to use the process of introducing vitamin D into foods through action of ultra-violet rays.

Dr. Harry Steenbock, professor of agricultural chemistry at the umvesity, discovered the process several years ago and the commercial use of it is controlled by the foundation. The foundation also protects patents secured by other university scientists and in 1931 showed a gross income of more than $342,000.

The expansion of the use of vitamin D in foodstuffs that grace the average American table is regarded as the greatest accomplishment of the foundation in its second annual report. An increasing number of foods carry the vitamin through the Steenock process and many of them are of particular benefit to growing children.

"During the earlier commercial development of this invention, emphasis was naturally laid upon the occupancy of the medical field," the foundation said in its report. "While this activity has been materially expanded through the development of a number of preparations other than Viosterol, which is used for the cure and prevention of rickets, the foundation has regarded it as a sound duty in the public interest to authorize the incorporation of Vitamin D in a limited number of foods."

"In doing so, it well realized that such a course of procedure will undoubtedly reduce its income which is would otherwise receive from the medicinal field. If, however, the incorporation of Vitamin D in foods can be handled in such a way as to prevent the development of disease, it is unquestionably the duty of the foundation to foster such a course of procedure rather than allow such diseases to develop and then cure the same by the use of more potent remedies."

The foundation said the dairy field offered the widest possibilities for the universal use of the process. Several dairies now sell milk on the open market which has been treated through the Steenbock process. Cattle are fed irradiated dried yeast which imparts to the milk a Vitamin D content per quart that is the equivalent of three teaspoonfuls of standardized cod liver oil, the foundation said.

Since the foundation began its work it has met with several cases of litigation in the courts. The Steenbock patent particularly has demanded much legal attention. Numerous infringements have been cited, notices of legal action served and several suits have been started. The foundation has been sustained in its rights by several court decisions thus far.

TWO OPERATIONS AT ONE TIME TAKE LEG, APPENDIX FROM MAN

Told that his foot, injured in an automobile accident six years ago, must be amputated, and his appendix removed, Mr. Goudge asked that both operations be performed at once. His wish was granted yesterday. His condition was reported good.

It has been found by the White House Conference on Child Health and Protecuon that there are 1,000,000 school children in the United States with weak or impaired hearts.
